No Danzig Coup Yet—Premier And Daladier May Send Message To Hitler

BONNET TELLS NAZI ENVOY "FRANCE BACKS BRITAIN"

BY OUR DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

ALTHOUGH TENSION STILL HUNG OVER EUROPE'S TROUBLED CAPITALS YESTERDAY, THERE WILL BE NO NAZI COUP IN DANZIG YET.

Reports from the Free City late on Friday night that Hitler would strike "within a few hours" are believed in London and Paris to be Nazi propaganda, to scare the democracies.

Hitler is stated to be planning to visit Danzig aboard a German cruiser on July 23. Poland is unlikely to raise any objection, for, under the international statute governing the city's status, any German citizen is entitled to enter Danzig without hindrance.

After a three-hour meeting yesterday afternoon of the French Cabinet, at which M. Daladier told his Ministers that the international situation "remains very serious," M. Bonnet, the Foreign Minister, had a 30-minute interview with the German Ambassador, Count von Welzeck.

It was their first direct contact for six weeks. It is believed that M. Bonnet told the Ambassador that France fully agrees with Lord Halifax's broadcast speech on Thursday. Immediately after Count von Welzeck had left, M. Bonnet received Sir Eric Phipps, the British Ambassador. He also saw the Dutch Minister.

At their meeting yesterday the French Cabinet approved a number of military and defence measures taken to "fortify France's action and leave no doubt as to her firm intentions."

DIPLOMATIC ACTION

M. Daladier's measures are reported to involve diplomatic action to convince Hitler and Mussolini that there will be war if they commit an act of aggression against Danzig.

There are unconfirmed reports in diplomatic circles that among the steps being considered by the French Government are:—

1. A direct personal message by Mr. Chamberlain and M. Daladier to Herr Hitler urging him to do nothing to break the peace of Europe.

2. Parallel or concerted statements by the British, French and Polish Governments, giving warning that they will fight if any attempt is made to settle the Danzig dispute by force.

It was announced last night that France will spend another £24,000,000 on rearmaments.

POLAND REASSURED

After the meeting, M. Bonnet also saw the Polish Ambassador and informed him of the measures decided upon by Britain and France to be taken if Herr Hitler acts at Danzig.

M. Bonnet's statement is believed to have had a very reassuring effect upon the Poles, who are now convinced that they will receive the fullest support of all the British and French armed forces if Poland is obliged to act in reply to a German attempt to annex Danzig.

In Paris diplomatic circles it is emphasised that it is for Poland to decide if she must take up arms to defend her vital interests against an action undertaken by Germany. Poland herself will be the final arbiter of the circumstances in which Britain and France would be called upon to fulfil their pledges of military aid.

Meanwhile—

IN LONDON, Lord Halifax and other members of the "Shadow Cabinet" were standing by. Sir Howard Kennard, British Ambassador in Warsaw, who had flown from Poland, was at the Foreign Office. Sir Neville Henderson, Ambassador in Berlin, and Sir Reginald Hoare, Ambassador in Bucharest, are expected in London soon.

IN WARSAW, quarters close to the Polish Foreign Office said that Britain, in reply to a Polish inquiry, had assured Warsaw of automatic British military support in the event of any attempt to change the status of Danzig, whether from within or without. Although there is thought to be no imminent danger of war, well-informed observers agree that there is at present no possibility of direct understanding or settlement with Germany.

It is expected that Poland will address a note to the Danzig Senate during the week-end asking for an explanation of the formation of a Free Corps in Danzig, the installation of anti-aircraft guns and the storage of food.

IN DANZIG, Albert Foerster, Nazi leader, will address 5,000 men at Tienhof this afternoon. His speech is not expected to increase the present tension.

After S.S. men, wearing the insignia "Danzig Heimwehr," had appeared in the streets, it was admitted that a Danzig Defence Force has been formed.

"Danzig must return to the Reich," the official Nazi organ declared again. "The Fuehrer will say when the hour has struck."

IN ROME, Signor Gayda, "Mussolini's mouthpiece," described Germany's policy in Danzig as "purely defensive." He accused the democracies of trying to find in Danzig a spark by means of which a general conflagration would be started.

IN BERLIN, only one newspaper mentioned Danzig. But the German Government informed the Polish Foreign Office that the German cruiser Koenigsberg would visit Danzig on August 25 and stay there until August 27.

ALL QUIET IN DANZIG

A swastika-bedecked street in Danzig. The Free City seems very tranquil in this study, but the eyes of the world are centred on it. British statesmen have declared that military seizure of the city will involve serious consequences.

ROYAL BRIDE IN SATIN

Florence, Saturday. KING VICTOR OF ITALY, HIS QUEEN, THE CROWN PRINCE AND PRINCESS, TOGETHER WITH THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF KENT AND OTHER FOREIGN ROYALTIES, ATTENDED THE WEDDING HERE TO-DAY OF PRINCESS IRENE OF GREECE AND THE DUKE OF SPOLETO. Their marriage is described as a genuine love match.

Princess Irene, who is thirty-five, is a younger sister of King George of Greece and cousin of the Duchess of Kent.

The Duke of Spoleto is thirty-nine, and is the younger brother of the Duke of Aosta, Viceroy of Abyssinia, a cousin of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and a grandson of King Amedeo, the only Italian King of Spain.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a long train, and diadem and a veil. The Duke of Spoleto was in the uniform of a Rear-Admiral of the Italian Navy.

The ceremony, conducted by King Victor's chaplain, Monsignor Giuseppe Beccaria, lasted an hour. The bride was given away by her brother, King George of Greece.

As the Royal couple emerged from the church, thousands of Florentines gave them a rousing welcome, which both acknowledged with the Fascist salute. Among the Royal guests were: Queen Giovanna of Bulgaria; Prince Michael of Rumania; Princess Olga of Yugoslavia; Prince Paul of Greece and Princess Frederica, and other members of the Italian and Greek royal families.

Tientsin Blockade: New Orders

JAPANESE TO TIGHTEN IT

WHILE the Japanese, according to a Japanese agency, intend to tighten the blockade of the British and French concessions in Tientsin, within the next two days, delegates to the conference which aims at finding a solution of the dispute are on their way to Tokyo. The British and Japanese representatives, with their experts, are due to arrive there to-night.

GRACIE FIELDS HEARD RADIO "CONGRATS"

GRACIE FIELDS IS "GOING ON NICE" IN THE CHELSEA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN, WHERE SHE IS RECOVERING FROM HER RECENT SERIOUS OPERATION. She was able last night to listen to the radio for the first time since her illness.

The programme was the last performance of the weekly "Music Hall" feature. An announcer interrupted the programme to give the news that she was among the listeners. The news had reached the B.B.C. in a message from Monty Banks. The cast of "Music Hall" replied with a message of good wishes.

Espionage Scare In Belgium

Woman Is One Of Eight Spies Held

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

AN ATTRACTIVE WOMAN, SAID TO BE A PERSONAL FRIEND OF HITLER, IS ONE OF EIGHT GERMAN SECRET SERVICE AGENTS NOW HELD IN SOLITARY CONFINEMENT AT LIEGE, ON CHARGES OF SPYING ON BELGIUM'S DEFENCES.

Believed to be a member of a famous German family, she entered Belgium as a journalist, holding credentials from well-known Swiss newspapers.

She claimed relationship with distinguished people in England and produced documents making it appear that she had graduated at Gorton College, Cambridge.

On the strength of these references, she was provided with a diplomatic passport which enabled her to gain access to important sources of information and to move in high circles where she had a chance to pick up vital information.

Two of the principals of the gang were a German ex-officer, who was arrested at the frontier, and a Belgian officer holding a high position in Brussels.

It is alleged that, although Hitler has given a pledge to observe Belgium's neutrality, the German High Command ordered the eight prisoners to obtain information which would enable the German army to turn France's Maginot line by a rush through Belgium.

It is claimed that the spies were also collecting information about Holland's defences, and that Germany plans to invade that country and use it as a base against Britain.

FRANCO PUTS SPAIN ON RATIONS

Burgos, Saturday. AN ORDER REGULATING THE DISTRIBUTION OF FOODSTUFFS IN SPAIN BY FIXING DAILY RATIONS TO BE ALLOWED HAS BEEN ISSUED BY GENERAL FRANCO'S GOVERNMENT.

Under the order men may receive daily 14 oz. of bread, 8 oz. of potatoes, 4 1/6th oz. of meat, 5/6th oz. of bacon or ham.

Rations for children up to 14 years are to be 60 per cent. of these figures. Women and men over 60 will be allowed 80 per cent.

It is explained that the rations have been fixed solely for the purpose of regulating distribution, and that it does not necessarily follow that rations will be delivered daily in the amounts described.

Scared to Wed "GHOST LOVER" AGAIN

Paris, Saturday.
Louis Genneteau, the "Ghost Bridegroom," who three times has vanished on the day fixed for his wedding, has now been found after a disappearance of five weeks.

A child came across him in a wood, where he had been living on fruit and raw vegetables. He appeared to be starving and could give no reason for his disappearance.

Louis's fiancée is a pretty farmer's daughter, Eugénie Cousseau. The wedding was originally fixed for last November. All was ready when it was found that Genneteau had disappeared, later being found, starving, in a wood.

LONDON'S RULERS IN AN EMERGENCY

In event of war London A.R.P. Committee may act as emergency rulers on behalf of the L.C.C. A recommendation to this effect is to be submitted to the Council on Tuesday.

"It is hoped," states a report of the General Purposes Committee, "that after the initial stages of hostilities had been passed and the sudden change from peace-time to war-time conditions effected, it would be possible to establish a routine of less urgent character."

"Consideration could then be given to the possibility of reverting, in whole or in part, to a system more comparable with the normal mode of conducting the Council's affairs."

DOCTOR'S GRATITUDE

In gratitude to his friends, Charles and Mary Varley, for care and devotion to his late wife and himself, Dr. Archibald Robert H. Bland, of Rosemary-gardens, South Kensington, left them his leasehold residence and a legacy of £100.

Their son John is to have a legacy of £200, and after certain specific bequests they are to have the remainder of his furniture.

Blazing 'Plane In Back Garden

Maidenhead, Saturday.

WHILE ATTEMPTING TO LAND AT THE R.A.F. FLYING SCHOOL, WHITE WALTHAM, NEAR MAIDENHEAD, TO-NIGHT, THE PLANE STRUCK THE ROOF OF A HOUSE, FELL INTO THE BACK GARDEN, WENT ON FIRE. THE PILOT CLIMBED OUT UNAIDED AND UNINJURED ONLY A FEW SECONDS BEFORE THE FLAMES BROKE OUT.

Miss J. Newham, of White Waltham, said: "The occupants of the house were out, and when they returned they found firemen playing hoses on the burnt-out machine in the garden."

"Apparently, the machine struck some telegraph wires, was deflected on to the roof of the house, and then fell into the garden."

"A hole was left in the roof where tiles had been ripped off."

"The pilot scrambled out just in time."

THIS GOLDEN ROAD TO SUCCESS

TO MR. ALEXANDER BOYD, WINNER OUTRIGHT OF "THE PEOPLE" CROSSWORD No. 157, THE MUST-BE-WON CASH PRIZE OF £1,250 MEANS MORE THAN A CHANCE TO BUY THE LITTLE LUXURIES FOR WHICH HE HAS LONGED.

It means that he will be able to do everything possible to ensure the return to wealth of the son who is his pride and joy.

For years Mr. Boyd, a warehouse clerk of the works, who lives at No. 22, Hutchison-drive, Bearsden, near Glasgow, has hoped for success in "The People" Competition.

Now, because he kept on trying, it has come.

"And it will make all the difference in the world to Kenneth, my eleven-years-old lad," he told a "People" representative.

"Kenneth has been receiving special treatment for infantile paralysis since he was three, but it has been such a struggle to provide him with all the little extras that are so necessary if he is to get better."

"We shall now be able to give him chances that would otherwise have been completely beyond our means."

And so, to start with, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, young Ken and his nine-years-old sister, Dorothy, will shortly set out for the sea on a holiday that would not have been possible had Mr. Boyd not spent many enjoyable but profitable hours on "The People" competitions.

"I've been entering for years, but never till now have I won a big prize," the delighted father added.

"Do you know, even if I hadn't pulled off this competition coup, I should not have thought the time spent with the crossword wasted. It has given me so much inexpensive fun."

"But it does go to show, doesn't it, that if you keep on trying you will be rewarded?"

Mr. Boyd planned to stay at home and paint his house during the holidays.

"I wasn't particularly looking forward to doing so, but funds wouldn't run to a stay by the sea," he added.

"But now we'll have the time of our lives. I'll see to it that my wife and family get the benefit of this grand prize."

Mr. Boyd paid tribute to "The Competitors' World," which, he said, gave him invaluable assistance and made his win possible.

What Mr. Boyd has done, you, too, can do.

With holidays in full swing, "The People" this week offers readers a chance to enjoy the vacation of their dreams.

For the first prize-winner will have the opportunity of a cruise to South America, travelling in the style of a millionaire, seeing all the sights that most people only view on the cinema screen.

The cruise will be for two and the winner will also be presented with a cheque for £1,250.

As an alternative, a must-be-won prize of £1,250 is offered.

Details of the runners-up prizes will be found in Page Eighteen.

Turn to Page Eighteen and read the simple rules that govern this fascinating competition. Then get down to it, for it may be your turn next to cash in on the big money.

CROSSWORD No. 157

In connection with Crossword No. 157, the Adjudication Committee decided that the most meritorious answers on one square (see below) were those submitted by Mr. A. Boyd, 22, Hutchison-drive, Bearsden, Glasgow, who, subject to the terms and conditions of the competition, will receive a cheque for £1,250 or a month's cruise to the Norwegian Fjords for four, all to the value of £250, and £1,000 cash, in accordance with the offer made.

Any other entrant who believes that he, or she, submitted a square eligible for a share of this prize must demand a scrutiny by not later than first post Wednesday, July 5, sending £1 scrutiny fee, copy of all squares submitted and postal order number. Envelope to be marked "Scrutiny" and addressed to the Competition Manager, "The People," 6, La Belle Sauvage, Ludgate Circus, London, E.C.4.

No scrutiny can be undertaken in connection with the runners-up prizes.

1st Runners-up—10 competitors, from whom we received squares inferior in merit by reason of only one less apt and accurate answer compared with the best square received, will be notified and given a choice of one of the 16 articles.

2nd Runners-up—102 competitors, from whom we received squares inferior in merit by reason of only two less apt and accurate answers compared with the best square received, will be notified and given a choice of one of the 16 articles.

The next 12 issues of "The Competitors' World," giving free advice to competitors, can be obtained by sending 6d. O. made payable to Odhams Press Ltd., and crossed & Co. to cover postage for the next 12 issues. Address your envelope "The People" Competition Department, 6, La Belle Sauvage, Ludgate Circus, London, E.C.4.

"THE PEOPLE'S" CROSSWORD No. 157

The most meritorious answers used by competitors decided according to aptness and accuracy by the Adjudication Committee, were those shown in the square on right.

One square contains two letters to indicate that at this point competitors who used the words PORT or POST were regarded as having submitted answers of equal merit.

Extracts from the reasons for Committee's findings in Crossword No. 157 form the subject of a helpful feature for would-be winners in this week's "The Competitors' World."

This free publication may be obtained on application. Send 6d. P.O. made payable to Odhams Press Ltd., and crossed & Co. to cover postage for the next 12 issues. Address your envelope "The People" Competition Department, 6, La Belle Sauvage, Ludgate Circus, London, E.C.4.

Mr. Eden Sees Danger, But— "WAR IS NOT INEVITABLE"

"CERTAINLY DO NOT HOLD THE VIEW THAT WAR IS INEVITABLE," DECLARED MR. ANTHONY EDEN AT WALPOLE PARK, EALING, W., LAST NIGHT. "ON THE CONTRARY," HE ADDED, "I AM CONVINCED THAT, IF THE TRUE FIRMNESS OF WILL AND PURPOSE OF BRITAIN CAN ONCE BE UNDERSTOOD ABROAD, THERE WILL BE NO WAR."

"We live in vigorous, boisterous and challenging times," he said. "The outlook for the immediate future is admittedly grave, even dangerous. It is not yet desperate."

"The mood of the British people to-day is neither jingo nor defeatist. It is sober and resolute and unshakably determined. The era of unchecked aggression is at an end."

"In terms of unmistakable clarity, Lord Halifax made plain in his great speech the position of the British people. He spoke for us all. Every section of the British people endorses and applauds his warning."

"Our word has been given. There can be, there will be, no turning back."

"The British people are essentially a people who love peace, but they have, at length, learned the grim truth. To ensure peace, it is not enough to wish for it, nor even to pursue it with fervour."

THE THREAT OF FORCE

"Faced with the methods of force recently employed—methods which are once again threatened—the nation that would enjoy peace can only hope to do so by showing that it is ready to sacrifice the very thing it most desires to keep."

"The British people are determined that, henceforth, there shall be no hesitation before threats nor concession to force."

"The German Chancellor himself has defined the issues which now confront the world. Six years ago, in a broadcast speech, he used these words: 'When Hitler definitely yields to Mign, a permanent state of insecurity results which destroys and hinders all normal functions in the life and intercourse of nations.'"

INTO A NEW ERA

"No one in this country will dispute the truth of that sentence. All are now determined that, this time, right will not yield to might."

"The nation to-day has recovered the whole of its ancient spirit. In truth, the nation never lost it."

"Whatever the outcome of the next few weeks, there will be no return to the world as we have known it. The times are changing faster than many realise. We are moving into an era governed by new forces. We cannot meet them with the remedies of years gone by."

"There can be no return to the selfish haphazard days of the past. We must meet the future with methods inspired by force."

"We Shall Meet Force With Force"

Other statements made yesterday include—

The Prime Minister (in a letter to the Conservative candidate in North Cornwall): "We have made it clear that we are resolutely opposed to attempts to impose settlements by force and that, if need be, we would meet such attempts by force."

Mr. L. S. Amery, M.P. (at Birmingham): "Mobilise the Fleet and the Regular Army at once, and then they will realise that we really are serious."

Arabs' Demand

"PALESTINE FOR EVER ARAB"

THE Arab Higher Committee, in a reply issued yesterday to the British Government's proposals for the future of Palestine, says the immigration of Jews must stop.

The Arabs are adamant that "Palestine shall be independent within an Arab federation and shall remain for ever Arab."

"The Arabs," it is stated, "do not recognise the Jewish National Home, which they consider as a clear trespass upon their most sacred natural rights."

They insist upon the immediate establishment within a reasonable transitional period of a national government that would assume power, that would have a constitution formulated by an elected National Assembly, and that would enter into treaty relations with Great Britain, with the object of ending the mandate.

Participation in the Government would be proportionate to the number of Palestine citizens in the respective populations.

They also insist on a complete and final prohibition of any transfer of lands from Arabs to Jews.

The committee states that the British Government has surrounded its policy with ambiguity and indefiniteness.

POLICEMAN SAYS SHE BIT HIM

From Our Own Correspondent

Salisbury, Saturday.
SAID to have been found throwing stones at the windows of the Salisbury Diocesan Refuge, and to have bitten a policeman's hand, Nellie Pitcher, aged twenty-one, was remanded here.

The Chief Constable, Mr. R. F. Nixon, said that Pitcher, who had no fixed address, had broken away from a home in Cornwall.

While in Salisbury she had thrown stones wrapped in notes which bore her handwriting at the windows of a man who had obtained work for her.

She had no control over her temper.

"Bribed" Ghost Failure

MR. CONAN DOYLE EXPLAINS

POINTED comments on the failure of an experiment which has been described as "a £5,000 bribe to a ghost," are made by Mr. Denis Conan Doyle, son of the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous author and spiritualist.

The experiment arose from a wish expressed by the Hon. Hugh D. McIntosh, noted fight promoter and newspaper proprietor, to discover the truth about spiritualism by trying to keep a midnight assignment with the spirit of a murderer.

As stated in "The People" last month, this chain of circumstances began when a thief named Simpson shot and killed a policeman in Sydney, Australia.

Just before his execution, the condemned man was told that Mr. McIntosh had offered £5,000 to his family if he would return from the dead at an appointed time. The man replied: "I will do my best," but, at the subsequent séance in the office of the Sydney "Sunday Times," no ghost appeared.

Giving reasons for this failure, Mr. Conan Doyle writes suggesting that the investigators could have expected no better result.

The séance, he says, was doomed before it began. "Mr. McIntosh," he says, "apparently held the séance without the presence of a medium." He adds that in these circumstances he had no more right to expect a spirit communication than if he had arranged for a friend from another country to speak to him at that hour without a telephone.

"ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE" "Just as a telephone is the means of communication in this world," he points out, "so a medium is the instrument which connects us with the next sphere of existence."

"Mr. McIntosh," he declares, "was apparently unaware of the fact that it is almost impossible, though not unknown, to communicate with anyone who has passed on for at least three days after physical death."

The spiritual body over that period is in a state of coma in its new environment.

The only other exception, he explains, would have been that of a soul of advanced spirituality. Such a spirit would have communicated, not through a medium, but through the spiritual powers of seership.

"And only then," he continues, "if the individual on earth—in this case Mr. McIntosh—was himself sufficiently evolved to receive a message."

In his newspaper article Mr. McIntosh made several references to the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

"It was these remarks about my father which aroused my interest," concludes Mr. Conan Doyle.

MACHINES ARE WORLD'S BEST, SAYS MINISTER

INDICATION OF THE ENORMOUS STRIDES BRITAIN IS MAKING IN AIR EQUIPMENT MAY BE OBTAINED FROM THE FACT THAT WE ARE SPENDING NEARLY £2,000,000 A WEEK ON AIRCRAFT ALONE.

And the machines now going into service are certainly as good as the best anywhere in the world.

Sir Kingsley Wood, the Air Minister, made this reassuring statement at Wellington, Shropshire, yesterday. "Science and invention are helping us," he added. "With the other formidable forms of defence we now possess, they will certainly render any air attack on this country a highly dangerous and costly operation."

"British aircraft have shown remarkable development in quality and production. We have built up, and are continuing to build, a balanced force not only with aircraft for defensive purposes, but with due regard to what is equally necessary—a powerful counter-offensive."

Sir Kingsley Wood said that our programme for first-line strength at home and abroad was not to be judged in terms of numbers of aircraft alone. There were also the strengthening of the reserves, the broadening of the basis of production and generally the organisation of the entire force in a manner which would make possible sustained and formidable operations in war.

With regard to production, Sir Kingsley said the Government were planning the organisation necessary for a great and rapid increase in output which would be essential in event of war.

R.A.F. recruiting was most satisfactory. Some months ago we passed the 100,000 mark for officers and men.

We had now reached a rate of expansion never yet achieved in time of peace. Young men of high quality had come forward with enthusiasm and in that spirit of adventure with which their forefathers answered the call of the sea.

NEW WOMEN'S FORCE

Parallel with the strengthening of the regular Air Force, a considerable expansion was being made in reserve and auxiliary personnel.

The Auxiliary Air Force had been much increased in size. The range of its activities had been extended to cover the balloon barrage scheme in London and the provinces.

Sir Kingsley Wood also announced that the King had approved the formation of a separate Women's Service for duty with the Air Force in time of war. This would be called the Women's Auxiliary Air Force. Its members would wear a uniform of Royal Air Force blue, which His Majesty had also approved.

Miss J. Trefusius Forbes, previously an officer in the Auxiliary Territorial Service, had been appointed Director of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force, with the rank of Senior Controller.

Units of the new Force would be grouped geographically under area administrators, and each company would be affiliated to a flying squadron or balloon centre of the Auxiliary Air Force.

SPEED AND VIGOUR

"Looking at our Air Force, we can see a magnificent Force already in being whose strength was increasing apace every day," Sir Kingsley continued.

"It has been built on broad and deep foundations so that it might possess endurance as well as initial strength. "It was endowed with the best manhood and engineering skill that the Empire could provide."

Sir Kingsley said we could on no account relax our efforts. Large numbers of men were still required for the regular and reserve air forces. The great effort that was being made in connection with production must be sustained with speed and vigour.

We must be strong in the air, for a formidable Air Force was a powerful deterrent and one of the surest means of maintaining peace.

WON'T CANCEL ANGLO-GERMAN ATHLETICS

AT the meeting of the Southern Committee held at the Offices of the A.A.A. yesterday, the following resolution was proposed by Mr. H. F. Pash:

"That in the opinion of the Southern Committee of the Amateur Athletic Association it is advisable in the existing circumstances to cancel the international match between Great Britain and Germany on August 20."

This resolution was debated and defeated by 20 votes to 13, four members abstaining.

Husbands and Wives Make Court Chuckle

WIFE: When I told my husband I should take him to court, he said, "That's a good idea. I shall then have a chance of meeting other good husbands."

Man: "She came into the kitchen and saw me shaving, and said: 'Well, what are you summoned for this time?'"

Solicitor: "Is your husband the sort of man who will stand up for his rights?" Woman: "Well, he was knocked down for them on a pedestrian crossing last year."

Husband: "I don't contradict what she has said about me; it's what she hasn't said about me that I deny."

Solicitor: "How did you know the man's wife was there?" Constable: "She told us not to take her husband until she had been through his pockets."

Man: "My wife has invented a sort of one-way system in our house. She doesn't like to have the neighbours see me using the front door."

Man: "The women were talking in under-ones, and kept looking at me. I kept looking at them; but I couldn't talk in under-ones because I had no one to talk to."

Woman: "I came home to find him in a very bad temper. He was drinking his tea out of the saucer."

Husband: "My wife does not like home-life. If the man next door and I start shouting at each other, off she goes back to her mother."

Man: "I admit I looked in the woman's face. She was wearing a hat which covered her face, and I was curious to see if I was right in assuming she had a black eye. I was."

Husband: "The only time I get any peace is when my wife's mother calls. Then I go out."

Wife: "As soon as my husband handed me my wages I realised he had given me short weight."

158,750,000,000 to One Against Repeat

WHILE playing whist yesterday in Portsdown-rd., Malda Vale, W., Mr. H. Leonard dealt himself a hand of 13 trumps.

Mr. Thomas Hughes, an actuary, of Randolph-avenue, who was watching the game, calculates that the odds against such an occurrence are 158,750,000,000 to one.

"The other players were Mrs. Leonard, Miss Phoebe Jenkins and Mr. Saul Roberts," he said.

Secret Broadcast

LABOUR APPEAL TO GERMANS

"It is all so foolish, so wicked, so futile. For all of us butter is better than guns."

These are sentences from a printed appeal to the German people drawn up by the British National Council of Labour representing the Trade Union Congress and the Labour Party.

The manifesto, which is headed "Why Kill Each Other?" urges that the workers of all countries must insist that disputes shall be settled by reason and not by war.

The message will be broadcast from certain secret wireless stations on the Continent, and distributed through "underground" organisations which it is stated exist in Germany.

The National Council of Labour has made every arrangement possible to see that the message reaches some of the German workers, and it is hoped that it will be passed on verbally.

The document states: "Everyone is asking, 'Will it be war?' And now people are asking, 'Are we on the edge?' Neither you nor we must submit to the belief that war is inevitable."

"WICKED MISREPRESENTATION"

"Some among you may say that the peace of Europe is being threatened because Germany is being encircled by enemies who wish to destroy your country and to make the economic life of the German people impossible. That is a wicked misrepresentation, and your Propaganda Minister knows it."

Stating that the "brutal seizure" of Czechoslovakia last March had convinced them that the German Government was aiming at nothing less than the domination and enslavement of all Europe, the appeal adds:

"And now the familiar process of war-like preparation, lying propaganda and stimulated disturbance is being operated against Poland in respect of Danzig. You must face the fact that if this is continued the result will be war."

"No one wishes to make war upon Germany. We are your friends. War, in fact, threatens you, not from outside, but from inside your own country and the responsibility for that threat belongs to Herr Hitler and his Government. Herr Hitler is encircling himself—and you."

Ex-Nazi Chief Predicts The "Humiliation Of Hitler"

"Collapse Of Vaulting Ambitions"

DESPITE HIS THREATS AND LOUD-MOUTHED BOASTS OF INVINCIBLE MILITARY POWER, HITLER DAILY DRAWS NEARER THE HOUR WHEN HE MUST SUFFER THE HUMILIATION OF SEEING THE COLLAPSE OF ALL HIS VAULTING AMBITIONS.

War or no war, Nazi Germany's plan to dominate the whole world by force is doomed to failure.

This is the reassuring message of a man who knows the Nazi Party and its aims from the inside—Hermann Rauschning, Prussian patriot and ex-Nazi chief, who, in his book, "Germany's Revolution of Destruction" (Heinemann, 10s. 6d. net), makes a sensational attack upon the evils of a regime in which he once believed.

Rauschning, once wealthy landowner, joined the Nazi Party because he saw in it the salvation of his beloved Fatherland.

He had fought and been wounded in the Great War. He yearned for the day when Germany would once again take a proud place among the great nations of the earth, and he saw in Hitler the man to lead the country back to recovery.

DISGUSTED!

And so he became a leader of the National Socialists. He took his place in the Danzig Senate as Nazi President. He was prepared to make any sacrifices for his country—but before the naked, unscrupulous methods of the Nazis he halted, appalled.

When they tried to force him to arrest Catholic priests, disfranchise the Jews and suppress rival parties, he turned his back upon them in disgust.

In "Germany's Revolution of Destruction" this man, who once enjoyed the confidences of Hitler, Goebbels and other party leaders, turns the spotlight upon Nazism and paints a grey picture of its future.

It is, he declares, doomed to fail. The Nazis, says Rauschning, want the earth, and they think they will get it. The return of Germany's colonies would not satisfy them. It would only be a prelude to greater demands, for they look upon world domination as their right.

"Heute gehört uns Deutschland, Morgen die ganze Welt..." ["To-day we own Germany, tomorrow all the world."]

These are lines taken from a marching song of the Hitler Youth Movement. Thus do the young men and women sing as they march to and fro at those enormous youth rallies that are an important part of modern Nazi-ruled Germany.

But even in this marching—perhaps the most effective and most characteristic method of domination employed by National Socialism—Dr. Rauschning finds a weakness.

WASTE

"These eternal night marches, this keeping of the whole population on the march, seemed to be a senseless waste of time and energy," he writes.

"Only much later was there revealed in it a cunning purpose, based on a well-judged adjustment of ends and means."

"MARCHING DIVERTS MEN'S THOUGHTS. MARCHING KILLS THOUGHT. MARCHING MAKES AN END OF INDIVIDUALITY."

The ordinary German man-in-the-street listening to the Fuehrer is swayed by the lighting effects, the special platform, the ordered applause and all the other gadgets of a glamour machine.

Hitler is deliberately and unceasingly held up to masses as a deity.

One of the principal devices for securing National Socialist dominance is the deification of the man, the Messiah-figure of the leader is the indispensable centre of their propaganda, as carefully devised as the whole apparatus of power.

"Some time before the seizure of power," Rauschning writes, "a prominent National Socialist expressed to me his opinion that the figure of the Leader must be withdrawn more and more into seclusion and surrounded with mystery. He must only come visibly into the presence of the nation by means of startling actions and rare speeches at critical moments in the national destiny."

But Rauschning himself is unimpressed by such methods.

"Party members," he declares, "are beginning to laugh at the Leader's spiritual outpourings, his sermons on art, his mediocre German, his crude economics."

ANARCHY

"Party leaders are getting apprehensive about his speeches; they are 'dreadful.' Only among the faithful laity are they still taken seriously as revelations of supreme wisdom."

It is Rauschning's view that any new revolution in Germany will come, not from the workers, but the young men within the Nazi Party.

Behind a few well-worn clichés of loyalty to the Leader and about the German nation there is concealed an outlook of undiluted materialism and a lust for every sort of violence which will never be drilled out of the Storm Troops again.

The simplicity and crude conceit with which these men flaunt their brutality as though it were something to be proud of shows the results of their education. "They are full of desperately dangerous ideas," says Rauschning, who, while he was a member of the party, was approached with a proposition to murder an unpopular Senator!

But there will be no uprising from the people, he maintains, so long as they believe what the Nazis tell them. When the scales fall from their eyes—anarchy!

At the moment the nation is held in bondage by the same methods of auto-suggestion that keeps a mesmerised fowl inside a chalk-drawn circle, and meanwhile the poison of unfreedom goes on working.

'Put Ban On Japan Tea'

STOP IMPORTING JAPANESE TEA IS THE THEME OF A QUESTION MR. WILL THORNE, M.P., OF PLAISTOW, E., IS TO PUT TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF TRADE ON TUESDAY.

He will also inquire how many thousands of cases of Japanese low-priced common tea have been imported during 1939, and at what price this tea is being sold to the leading English tea-blenders.

Mr. Thorne suggests in another part of his question that this common tea is being mixed with British Indian and Ceylon tea.

OUR UNTAMED REPORTER

TAKES A GOOD VIEW OF "JOE-AS-RUNS"

I ALLUS LIKES GENTS AND GALS AS KEEP THEIR DATES ON THE DOT, AND SO I TAKE A GOOD VIEW OF JOE-AS-RUNS WHEN HE HARES ACROSS THE LOUNGE OF GROSVENOR HOUSE AT TEN FIFTEEN PROMPT, ESPECIALLY WHEN I LEARN THAT JOE-AS-RUNS LEAVES HIS "EGGS AND BAKE" TO KEEP OUR DATE.

Joe-As-Runs is really Joseph Forshaw, a gent as could give that Wooderson feller a run for his dough, only Joe-as-runs is fifty-eight and reckons it is only fair to stand down and give the youngsters a chance.

Joe, who hails from little old St. Louis, America, is here with Ma Joe and two of the kids, and they are pecking at the sights, and they must say they find them pretty snappy sights at that.

But the sights in which Joe-as-runs is most interested are Windsor Castle and Shepherd's Bush, and I'll tell you for why.

It seems that when it comes to hareling along on his pins Joe-as-runs is the cat's pyjamas and, way back in little old 1908, he pounds along in a race that makes the Mile of the Century seem very small beer indeed.

It is a marathon from Windsor to Shepherd's Bush which takes place during the Olympic Games, and one and all of the five million gents and gals line the route sure are het up with excitement.

Joe comes in third, he tells me, but afterwards he kicks himself in the pants on account of he believes he should have come in first.

It seems that an Italian waiter gent named Dorando Pietri, who is dressed in red pants does a bit of all right until the last few yards of the twenty-five miles.

It is most dramatic, says Joe-as-runs. For this Dorando gent he comes a neck of a cropper just as he is in sight of the tape.

The track gents help him up, says Joe, but he comes two or three more necks of croppers while the crowd roars, says Joe-as-runs.

This Italian gent is lost, says Joe, though he faints for an hour and is shoved in an ambulance before you can say Jack Robinson, that is if you wish to say Jack Robinson, says Joe.

BUT it seems there is such a to do about the gents helping him that the Italian waiter gent is disqualified, though he certainly runs a very gallant race, he says.

So a Yank named Hayes is the winner, he adds, with a South African gent named Hefferon second, and yours truly third.

I reckon I could have won, says Joe-as-runs, because I have plenty of what it takes left in me when I finish. But, unfortunately, I miscalculated the number of gents ahead of me, he says, on account of gals as drop out being hidden by the crowds.

Joe Forshaw

Joe tells me that he has taken a peek at Shepherd's Bush near where he enters the White City Stadium at the end of the big race, and also that he plans to peek at Windsor Castle where it started in front of a lot of royal gents and ladies.

It's funny, he says, but I happen to meet Johnny Hayes—the Marathon winner—for the first time for years, just before I leave little old New York for little old England, he says.

Johnny is okey-doke, says Joe-as-runs. He has an ever-loving wife, he says, and kids as well, and at fifty-four he is as fit as a kitten, as it leaves me at present, says Joe.

He also meets a Yank gent, by name of Dr. R. Le Cron, who is an old school pal and paces Joe in the big race.

It is with Dr. Le Cron that I take a peek at Shepherd's Bush, adds Joe-as-runs.

Joe also adds that he hopes to meet two gents who have the same monicker as watches him run in the Windsor to Shepherd's Bush Marathon. These gents are W. O. Forshaw, of King's-rd., Wilsden Green, and James Forshaw, hatter, of Lowesmoor, Worcester, he tells me.

These gents write to me 31 years ago, in 1908, and say how about meeting, he says, and so I figure on popping along and saying how-do.

Now when I hear this I take back what I said in my first paragraph about Joe's punctuality.

For, I think to myself, Joe-as-runs certainly isn't a gent as keeps dates on the dot, I think.

Stalin's Daughter May Visit England

BEFORE THE SUMMER ENDS, ENGLAND MAY HAVE AS A VISITOR

A PRETTY DARK-EYED GIRL OF FOURTEEN WHO IS ONE OF THE MOST CLOSELY GUARDED LITTLE GIRLS IN THE WORLD.

She is Stalin's favourite daughter Svetlana, and she has been described as the one person who is nearest that iron man's heart.

Svetlana lives with her father in his private flat in the heart of the Kremlin, in Moscow.

She is the daughter of his second wife Nadezhda, Alilueva, who was found dead in her bed some seven years ago.

Stalin has always been proud of his daughter, the nearest to him say his workshops her. Now he is prouder than ever because she has just passed with flying colours a difficult music examination.

Not long ago she expressed a wish to learn English. She was given the services of a tutor, who attended at the flat and gave her English lessons after school hours.

She has made rapid progress and recently expressed a wish that she might be allowed to visit this country. If circumstances permit that visit may be made before the summer ends. For there is no wish Stalin will not grant his motherless daughter if he possibly can.

She will probably be accompanied by the tutor who has been teaching her English.

And in the background there would certainly be at least one of the trio of guards who in Moscow have the task of ensuring her safety whenever she leaves the Kremlin flat—even to go to school.

NEW TREATMENT FOR ACID STOMACH

Revealed by Tests
in World-Famous Hospital

Your stomach valve should send a steady trickle of anti-acid juice into the stomach day in, day out, to prevent acid rising into the pain zone. When your stomach becomes upset, it means this valve is not working properly, so acid rises in the stomach and sears the tender stomach walls. Every mouthful of food you swallow burns and torments you. Your stomach becomes distended by wind. You dread meals.

Normal action—stomach valve opens and sends a steady trickle of anti-acid juice into the stomach. Stomach valve not working properly—acid rises into the pain zone. RENNIE'S anti-acid tablets—regularly taken—cause the stomach valve to work again.

To stop stomach pains and get your stomach valve working full time again, the experiments of a group of doctors in a world-famous hospital have proved you need the natural, saliva-borne action of Digestif RENNIE'S. The anti-acid juice released by these tablets does not rush into your stomach like stomach powders, doing more harm than good. It acts like nature by trickling into the stomach slowly, gently, just as required. The gradual action of the special ingredients in RENNIE'S makes the soothing effect of these tablets last longer than ordinary remedies. And RENNIE'S are much simpler to take. Just suck them like sweets. Your own saliva does the rest.

RENNIE'S taste nice. They're separately wrapped. Keep some in your pocket or handbag—slip a couple in your mouth after meals or whenever you feel indigestion coming on. RENNIE'S are half the cost of other remedies—twice as effective. No less than 1,100 doctors use and recommend them. Large trial packet 6d. Four times the size, 1/5. At all chemists.

Men's Defence League Gets It Hot WOMEN WORKERS UP IN ARMS

'SCARED LAP- DOGS AFRAID FOR THEIR JOBS'

THESE SCARED LAP-DOGS ARE AFRAID FOR THEIR JOBS... WANT TO PUT WOMEN BACK IN THE HOME, WHEN THEY THEMSELVES SHOULD BE IN A HOME!

That's an example of the verbal clubs and battleaxes the Amazons are swinging in their counter-attacks on the National Men's Defence League.

Irate spinsters are furious at the League's "Women's-place-is-at-home" manifesto, published in "The People" last Sunday.

"So they want to sack all women workers, eh?" writes Helen Brown, of Hampstead.

"What are we supposed to do? Watch the male of the species gorge itself on the fat of the land, while we slowly starve to death?" "Contented Spinster" of Edgware, adds to the denunciation with some trenchant remarks on married bliss.

"Half the so-called happily married women can't afford a pair of cotton hose, let alone silk ones."

"While their ever-loving husbands are flashing about in the height of fashion, rolling in the cash they reserve for their own selfish pleasure."

"It is surely far better for a woman to stay single than to tie herself to any object of a man, who refuses to fulfil his duties as a provider."

A ST. PANCRAS reader wants to know why women should be denied the right to work. She goes on:—

"I myself have a widowed mother to support on a meagre wage."

Quinton, Birmingham, pooh-poohs the idea of putting women back in the home.

"Doesn't the League know," she queries, "that the girl who stays at home, stays home till she withers and dies?"

"A man does not marry a girl because she's sensible and a good manager, but because he's mad about her, and if she's smart and cool-headed enough he will go to the extent of signing on the dotted line."

C. L. London, begins her attack with a question. "What are the prospects of the men of to-day?" she asks. "They can't earn enough to keep a dog, let alone a wife."

"They have neither trade nor education at their finger tips, and when they get married the wife often has to go out and support them."

"About all they are good for is an office boy's job, or pushing a coster's cart."

"Believe me, I am a middle-aged spinster, and I would not change my liberty with any married woman to-day."

ON the other hand, "The People" has to record the receipt of many hundreds of letters from enthusiastic men who want to join the League!

To Foil Greedy Landlords THREAT OF NEW RENT STRIKES

FROM OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT

PROFITING BY LANDLORDS IS CONTINUING TO SUCH AN EXTENT THAT MORE RENT STRIKES, ON A BIGGER SCALE THAN BEFORE, ARE TO BE ORGANISED IN THE EAST END OF LONDON UNLESS THE GOVERNMENT TAKES PROMPT STEPS TO END THE SCANDAL.

The question of a national rent strike is also to be considered at a conference of the National Federation of Tenants Associations which is to be held in a fortnight.

Meanwhile, Parliament is to be asked this week to intervene and see that the tenants get justice.

Many of them are people who are having to pay a third of their wages for accommodation in hovels which, in some boroughs, would not be allowed to exist.

Sir Percy Harris, M.P. for Bethnal Green, E., is asking the Minister of Health this week to send an inspector to East London at once and get from him a full report on the profiteering.

Sir Percy wants this followed by the appointment of a committee of inquiry, consisting of M.P.s and social workers, to investigate the whole question and make recommendations.

There is a growing feeling among East End M.P.s that the Rent Restriction Act will have to be amended so as to prevent working-class dwellings from being controlled. This, in its turn, would prevent the landlord from forcing up the rent as soon as there is a change of tenant.

NURSE STOLE TO FEED HER TWO CHILDREN

From Our Own Correspondent

Brentford, Middlesex, Saturday. Margaret Helen Mason, thirty-nine-years-old nurse, of Mount Ararat-rd., Richmond, who pleaded guilty here today to stealing food from a Twickenham nursing home, told a detective that she took bread and tea because her children were starving.

Detective C. Maudsley said that when he visited her house he found no food. "She is the mother of two illegitimate children, and this was her first position for a long time. I do believe she stole to feed her children."

The chairman, placing her on probation, said: "We feel genuinely sorry for you."

"TERRIER" HEROES OF GREAT WAR

Plans are on foot to hold a 25th anniversary reunion dinner of the 1st Battalion the London Scottish Regiment, who left England in the s.s. Winifred on the night of September 15, 1914, for France, where they were the first Territorial battalion to go into action.

"Old Comrades" should write to the hon. secretary, Mr. G. P. Burn, at 59, Buckingham Gate, S.W.1.

GERMAN TAX DROP

Berlin, Saturday. A reduction of the taxes burdening the capital market was foreshadowed by Dr. Funk, President of the Reichsbank.

This was necessary, he said, in order to open up the capital market to private business, which was one of the main tasks set him by the Fuehrer.—Reuter

These Things Don't Make Sense

By "The Philosopher"

YOUNGSTERS GET MUDDLED BETWEEN A DAIRY AND A DIARY. OFF-HAND I DIDN'T KNOW HOW TO SPELL EITHER, TILL I SAW BOWLS OF MILK IN ONE AND TRIED TO WRITE UP THE OTHER.

Compiling a diary involves difficulties, chiefly remembering after a week of postponements what you meant to jot down, and perhaps selecting a code for private items in case your book of sentiments gets lost.

But, as with sailors, some diarists don't care. Pepys and John Evelyn wrote public diaries, much about the Great Fire of London, which apparently brought out more daring diarists than firemen.

"The burning still rages," runs Evelyn's account, "and it has now got as far as the Inner Temple."

"The stones of St. Paul's flew like grenades, the lead running down the streets in a stream, and the pavements glowing with fiery redness."

LIKE THOUSANDS DO SOME TIME, I ONCE TRIED A DIARY. NOT A SERIOUS ONE, BUT A LITTLE PERSONAL CATALOGUE, HAVING NO BEARING ON ANYTHING BEYOND MY OWN TRIFLING COMINGS AND GOINGS.

It was a round of repetitions which I subsequently threw in the fire because of its obvious futility.

There are diaries and diaries, feeble efforts and better ones like that of Pepys—informed people of later centuries how his own heart felt on important events rushing past him.

Of course, it may be claimed that we don't require diarists as formerly. Our newspapers will be sufficient records down the years to people curious enough to look up the files.

Yet newspapers mostly are not critical. They give big news baldly with a take-it-or-leave-it.

YESTERDAY, IN OUR LIBRARY ARCHIVES, I TURNED OVER PAPERS OF JULY, 1914, VINTAGE AND ROUND CABINET MINISTERS DASHING AROUND IMPORTANTLY WITH A TIDAL WAVE OF WAR MENACING THE WORLD.

I searched for an intimate human column and was disappointed. And today also a Pepys would serve well us moderns and afterwards folks of the future.

What a field he could cover! There might not be a Fire of London to yarn over, but he could emphasise the oness the nations are in, and what the little men think about it.

He could get down to things which go to make present-day life.

He could condemn snobbishness, meanness which persists even during death and disaster.

AFTER A BRITISH SUBMARINE HAS GONE DOWN WITH SAILOR-HUSBANDS ABOARD, WIDOWS GET 22s. 6d. TO 27s. 6d. WEEKLY, ACCORDING TO THE RANK OF THE HUSBAND.

As if rank after death should count one little.

Meanwhile, a commander's widow is to receive £210 annually. Such differences and those inadequate smaller allowances can never make sense.

Then in our bright society of human souls we perpetrate more ghastly jokes, like ten-bob pensions, weekly half-crowns for children, and Cabinet pensions of thousands.

YES, IT WOULD BE FINE IF A MODERN DIARIST COULD DAILY PILLORY, BY HIS CRITICAL TRUTHS, IN-HUMANITIES THAT STOP THE WORLD FROM REVOLVING SMOOTHLY.

ZEE-KOL

(BRAND)
HEALS EVERY SKIN DISEASE

—MANY IN A NIGHT—
FOUR SACKS FULL OF TESTIMONIALS FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD

Many may promise a wonderful remedy, but there is nothing like Zee-Kol. Beware of imitations.

ZEE-KOL is, without doubt, the most wonderful skin healer of all time. The cruellest Skin Diseases, such as Ulcers, Eczema, Abscesses, etc., are rapidly and completely banished and Pimples, Blackheads, Boils, Rashers, etc., disappear like magic. Never was known any remedy like Zee-Kol. Where it touches, the skin takes on a finer and healthier glow. Zee-Kol kills all germs that enter the skin—that is why it heals the moment it touches the skin. It destroys everything unhealthy to the skin. No skin disease can resist it. Forget it being a Patent Medicine. This is the only way we have of letting the world know of Zee-Kol's marvellous power of skin healing. There is nothing in the world to compare with Zee-Kol. Do not hesitate. Go straight to your chemist and get a box of Zee-Kol and rest absolutely assured that your skin troubles will speedily be banished. Zee-Kol heals, in record time, Eczema, all kinds of Ulcers, Chills, Leg Troubles, Severe Burns, etc.

Runaway Murderess Sought

BEAUTIFUL VELMA WEST MAY BE ON HER WAY TO BRITAINTHE CAT AND THE SQUIRREL

Adversity makes strange bedfellows even in the animal world, as is proved by this orphaned kitten and squirrel, who have pulled up in a rescue home for animals.

SPECIAL TO "THE PEOPLE"

BECAUSE, TWELVE YEARS AGO, SHE IS KNOWN TO HAVE VOWED THAT ONE DAY SHE WOULD SAMPLE THE NIGHT LIFE OF LONDON AND PARIS, A CLOSE WATCH IS BEING KEPT ON ALL BOATS LEAVING AMERICA FOR A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN OF THIRTY-TWO NAMED VELMA WEST.

For Velma is a runaway murderess. A fortnight ago she made a daring escape from the jail where she was serving a life sentence. And there is reason to believe she may attempt to stow away on some Europe-bound ship.

Velma is a woman whose life has been ruled, and broken, by vows. It was because of a vow she had made to go to a bridge party that, eleven years ago, she found herself in the shadow of the electric chair.

She was then a lovely girl-wife of twenty-one, with a wealthy husband and an established position as the belle of the smart set of Perry, the Ohio township where they lived in a luxury bungalow. Her husband, nine years her senior, idolized her. On every hand they were regarded as a singularly happy couple.

Actually, however, Velma found countryside life a little tame. She had been brought up amid the bustle and liveliness of Cleveland, a city not far away. And secretly she was always pining for it.

One morning she opened a letter just brought by the postman, and read its contents with sparkling eyes. Not that there was anything very important about it. It was merely a letter from a girl friend, inviting her to a bridge party that was going to be held in Cleveland.

"But you're not going?" mildly queried Velma's husband.

"Oh, but I must," rejoined his wife. "It will be grand."

"I would much rather you didn't," pursued the husband. "I know it may be quiet for you here, but surely we're happy enough just the two of us without there being any necessity for rushing off to Cleveland."

But Velma would not agree. Before breakfast was over the matter had almost reached the quarrel stage. They dropped the subject.

Velma, however, had vowed to herself that whether her husband liked it or not she was going to that Cleveland bridge party.

She did not refer to it again. But on the evening of the party she appeared before her surprised husband dressed in a ravishing new gown, and announced that she was just off.

"To the bridge party?" she smiled. There was an open quarrel then. Angriest the husband told her she was not to go. He locked one of the doors and was going to lock another when she came up with a hammer and killed him.

She acted with amazing coolness after that. Slipping upstairs she unhurriedly changed her frock to an even more ravishing one, re-did her hair, got out her car and drove steadily into Cleveland.

"ONE MORE FLING!" She was the brightest figure at the party that night. And afterwards she delighted the gathering by sitting down at a piano and singing a number of current "Blues" songs.

Those who heard her thought the sadness in her voice and manner was a wonderfully good song-acting. Actually it was something else. Velma was singing a dirge for the husband she had loved and slain.

But she had kept her vow. She had gone to the party.

When she received a life sentence she made another vow.

"In ten years," she said, "I'll be eligible for parole. That is the day I am going to live for. I'll earn it. I shall be old then—and I love life and want to live it."

But the time when she thought she would be due for parole came and went. It was then Velma resolved to take the matter of freedom into her own hands.

She made her plans carefully, and managed to get out of the place one night so that her absence was not noticed until the following morning.

A note she left behind explained why she had gone. "I realise now that I shall never be paroled," she wrote. "But I have vowed to have one more fling before I die, and I am going to keep that vow."

SUPER FIRE PUMPS

A super fire pump designed by the Home Office A.R.P. Department for issue to the auxiliary fire services is a last-minute addition to the National Service parade in Hyde Park to-day.

Officially known as the extra heavy self-propelled type, the pump is to be issued to the auxiliary fire services in London and other large cities. It has a capacity of 1,400 gallons a minute, as compared with 800 gallons a minute delivered by the ordinary London Fire Brigade fire pump. First order for 100 has been placed by the London A.R.P. Committee.

Terrorists' Influence
On Convicts

Plymouth, Saturday.

FIVE I.R.A. TERRORISTS WHO ARE SERVING SENTENCES IN DARTMOOR PRISON HAVE RECENTLY BEGUN THEIR TERRORIST TACTICS INSIDE THE JAIL, CAUSING UNREST AMONG THE OTHER PRISONERS.

While there is no expectation of a mutiny, incidents have crowded one upon the other until there is some sign of disaffection almost every day.

There is also a feeling that terrorists outside will make a demonstration against the prison.

Special significance is believed to attach to the attempt of a convict named Freeman to escape last Thursday.

As Freeman is known to be a simple-minded prisoner, the authorities are convinced he did not plan and engineer his escape personally.

POSSIBLE USE OF DECOY

Investigations may reveal that he was being used as a decoy for more serious prisoners by ringleaders. His short-lived freedom, however, foiled any plans.

Among recent incidents at the prison have been an attack on Warden Ankers, a much-liked and good type of officer, and an attempt by a convict to commit suicide.

Another prisoner was found to have seen through three bars of his cell window. Yet another convict climbed to the roof of one of the workshops and defied warders to bring him down. He broke pane after pane of glass in the roof before he was hosed to the ground.

A prisoner mixed cement with the pigs' food on the prison farm, and, as a result, one pig died.

Warders are uneasy about the arrival of the I.R.A. terrorists, who might exploit the "grousers."

Mother, may I go out to play?
Yes, my darling daughter.
Play with your friend upon the sands,
But don't go into the water.

THOMAS WISDOM ASKS—

MUST THIS GO ON?

RICHARD JOHN BEATTIE SEAMAN, BRITAIN'S GREATEST RACING MOTORIST, KILLED IN THE BELGIAN GRAND PRIX, HAS BEEN LAID TO REST, AND SO I BID FAREWELL TO A FRIEND—A SILENT GOOD-BYE I HAVE UTTERED TOO MANY TIMES IN TEN YEARS. DICK SEAMAN IS DEAD.

Must it go on? Too many fine men have died in these short ten years—drowned, or burned or smashed.

I have said good-bye to De Hane Segrave, killed on that fateful June 13, nine years ago; to "Tim" Birkin, who died in agony from burns; to "G. G. (Hammy)" Hamilton, to "Clive" Dunlop, to "Pat" Fairfield, most charming of friends; to Eric Fernhough, killed on two wheels. And now, Dick Seaman.

Why do they do it? We have talked about "the improvement of the breed" that motor-racing fosters. That is untrue to-day. Listen to Reid Railton, foremost automobile designer in this country, the man responsible for two of those over 300-m.p.h. motor-cars, the fastest motor-boat: "Racing no longer matters—the metallurgist and the test-bench proves now what we used to learn from motor-racing."

And Lord Nuffield, greatest of our motor manufacturers. What does he say? No talk from him of improvement of the breed of motor-cars—he has pleaded, many a time, with Campbell, Byson, Cobb and Gardner, our fastest men, to give up before it is too late.

Nuffield isn't worried about the "improvement of the breed." He knows it's all bunkum.

Motor-racing is a grand sport—it has that spice of danger to life. But the machine has become the master of the man—the modern racing-car is too fast for all but the fateful few. To-morrow, even those few may be servants, too.

Yet it was because the modern Grand Prix machine, capable of 200 m.p.h. in road-racing trim, was so fast and so it is said, uncontrollable, that fascinated Dick Seaman. Down from Cambridge, twenty-one years old, wealthy and with a life of ease before him, he watched the "aces" at Brooklands.

That was only in 1932. He felt, as did T. E. Lawrence and many another, that irresistible urge to speed. Soon he was winning race after race. Easily and delightfully he flashed round corners with never a crash—it was the men behind who were to do that.

Germany noticed him before we were aware that another Segrave, another Birkin, was in our midst. And, because only Germany had the fastest road-racing cars in the world, Seaman joined the Mercedes team.

At first he was a tyro. Though he had won many a race here and in Europe, in the cockpit of the 200-m.p.h. car he had to learn again. Three crashes—a permanently "crooked" leg, a face that was painfully rebuilt by the plastic surgeon—but he persevered.

Then suddenly he was a "star," and last year, in Germany's grandest race, he was first in the only Grand Prix won by an Englishman in ten years. We gave him a luncheon to celebrate that feat, first since Segrave.

Dick was said; said that it was not a British car on which he had achieved his ambition.

And we were trying. The British Motor Racing Fund was started to put Britain back on the motor-racing map. Seaman was to have been asked to drive with the new E.R.A. British motor-racing hope, was completed.

Now he is dead. The tribute I liked best was from his German comrades: "He was an upright and thoroughly decent comrade and a brave fellow."

I have seen too many of my friends die suddenly, though, perhaps, it was the death that they would have desired. Motor-racing once attracted me—now it appeals for only an I reminded of those ghosts at the wheel.

"Wakes Week" Joy
Is Here Again!

Blackpool, Saturday.
LANCASHIRE'S FAMOUS "WAKES" THE WEEK WHEN WHOLE TOWNS GO ON HOLIDAY, STARTED TO-DAY.

The "Wakes" are a survival of an Anglo-Saxon holiday festival originally celebrated all over England by the ancient name of "Wacc."

When the Saxons were first converted to Christianity, each parish made holiday on the birthday of the saint to which its church was dedicated.

Festival began the evening before with devotions in church during the night (hence "wake").

Next day there was great merry-making in the churchyard, where booths were set up to serve food and ale.

Soon all religious significance was forgotten. The night-time devotions were omitted. The boisterous gaiety became a scandal.

So they were frowned upon and soon died out. Everywhere, that is, except in the North.

OF GRATITUDEPut Up Poster in Thankfulness for Restored Health

Suffered for Many Years from Neurasthenia

'A NEW MAN'
THANKS TO YEAST-VITE

BRAND TONIC

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS of people have benefited from Yeast-Vite.

THOUSANDS have written in praise of this wonder quick tonic.

But here is ONE man who is SO GRATEFUL that he has actually erected a sign outside his house proclaiming for everyone to see how thankful he is for Yeast-Vite.

He constructed it to "tell the world" of this great Health discovery.

Read his letter, and you will understand WHY he was moved to this public-spirited act of gratitude.

Outside His Own House

Over 6 feet long, constructed of sheet iron and stout oak, painted red, yellow, blue and black, this hoarding stands as a permanent monument of gratitude and thankfulness for restored health.

I CAN WALK 20 MILES A DAY
Without Fatigue and Can
SLEEP AND EAT LIKE BEFORE 1914

Birmingham,
10th June, 1939.

Dear Sirs,
I thought you would be interested to hear of the benefits I have obtained from your "Yeast-Vite."

As a result of war service I have suffered for many years from neurasthenia, and have tried a great many remedies without much lasting good. Last March I decided to give your remedy a trial, and got a supply in and commenced treatment. I was very gratified at the results. Within the first fortnight I was sleeping better and my appetite had improved a lot. To-day, after about three months' treatment, I am a new man at 45. I can walk 20 miles a day without fatigue, and can sleep and eat like before 1914. Your remedy is a boon to sufferers like myself had been, and I am indeed glad I gave it a trial.

With regard to the photo. I had wondered what I could do to make your remedy more popular round here, and so as I have a cottage and garden in the black country, I purchased some iron sheet, paint, c-k timbering, etc., and put up the sign as shown. The letters are in red, blue and black, and the background yellow, so it attracts plenty of attention from the main road. The sign is 6 ft. 4 in. long and the wall 7 ft. high. So you will see it is a good strong job, and I shall of course keep it in good repair.

I would mention I do not wish to benefit from the sign, and shall be pleased to provide the site free of charge indefinitely.

I am, Yours faithfully,
(Signed) H. F.

A Spark of Life

ECZEMA ended at last!

★ Relieves irritation at once—acts externally and internally, too

If you are a chronic Eczema sufferer, please read the letter below. It proves—by actual results—how quickly persistent Eczema can be cleared up by this new "double-action" treatment with T.C.P.—

"I have been having special treatment for three months for eczema on both arms and legs. It was not improving at all, in fact going worse, when I noticed your advertisement for T.C.P., and immediately tried it. I both soaked the places with T.C.P., and took the dose prescribed. In less than three weeks my arms and legs were cured."

E. L., Southampton.

The reason for the striking success of this T.C.P. treatment is simply this. In cases of persistent Eczema, the skin cannot clear and heal properly until the germs and impurities that are often in the system itself, have been completely eliminated.

This is just what T.C.P. enables you to do. For besides applying T.C.P. frequently to the affected skin, you also take a small internal dose of T.C.P., in water, night and morning.

In this way T.C.P. exerts just the "double-action" needed to clear up Eczema outright. The external applications stop the irritation almost at once, and quickly reduce the inflammation under the skin. And the tonic cleansing effect of the internal doses helps Nature to clear the Eczema-causing poisons right out of the system.

So start to-day to banish the real cause of your Eczema misery—with this new, scientific treatment—and you will soon see your skin beginning to clear and heal. T.C.P. (with full directions enclosed) is sold only by Chemists, in 1/3 and 5/- bottles.

MANY FORCED TO SLAVE IN KITCHENS

SPECIAL TO "THE PEOPLE"

MANY OF BRITAIN'S 18,000 "UNWANTED" CHILDREN, WHO ARE BOARDED OUT WITH FOSTER MOTHERS ALL OVER THE COUNTRY IN RETURN FOR A WEEKLY FEE, ARE LIVING A LIFE OF MISERY AND DRUDGERY.

Grave scandals of the foster-mother system were brought to light at the Baby Welfare Conference in London last week, and Dr. Edith Summerskill, M.P. is to bring the matter to the notice of the House of Commons on Tuesday.

She will tell the Minister of Health that:— Many of the foster mothers are immoral, with the result that the children are not only being neglected, but are being brought up in an atmosphere that will automatically result in their apprenticeship to a life of shame.

Many London children are nearly 60 years of age, and sometimes older than that, with the result that they are completely unfitted to give proper care to the children.

Many cases have been reported where the foster mothers are invalids, and so the children, instead of being cared for themselves, become little domestic drudges and have to slave in the kitchens.

Although many foster mothers give the children the same attention as they would give to their own boys and girls, the foster mother system is in many ways becoming a huge racket, with money as the chief consideration.

Dr. Summerskill will ask the Health Minister to order a searching investigation of the whole system, and much stricter inspection and registration.

IN COURT YESTERDAY

Bail For Brenda Dean Paul MUST NOT SEE HER FRIEND

ON CONDITION THAT SHE DID NOT COMMUNICATE WITH A FRIEND WHOM SHE WAS ALLEGED TO HAVE IMPERSONATED TO OBTAIN GOODS, BRENDA DEAN PAUL, DAUGHTER OF SIR AUBREY DEAN PAUL, WAS REMANDED AT WESTMINSTER YESTERDAY.

She was accused of obtaining from a London store a bottle of whisky and a bottle of ginger ale by false pretences with intent to defraud.

Det.-Sergeant Irvine explained that when he saw Brenda Dean Paul in a house in Cromwell-rd., South Kensington, he told her he was inquiring about a woman who had obtained goods by falsely representing herself to be Miss Jean Baird.

"Yes, that's me, but they all knew I am not Jean Baird," she replied.

"THIS IS TERRIBLE"

When the warrant for arrest was read over to her, continued the officer, she said, "It's ridiculous. I used to live with Jean. She knew I was getting goods on her account."

She then asked if she could telephone to Miss Baird before leaving the address. She had a conversation with someone on the telephone.

After putting down the receiver she said, "This is terrible. Miss Baird denies it. It appears I have committed a criminal offence," the officer added.

COMPLETE ANSWER

Charged at Walton-st. Police Station, she replied, "I shall deny it. I had no intent to defraud."

Reserving cross-examination, Mr. Claud Hornby, who represented Paul, said, "At the proper time she will have a complete answer to this charge."

Sergeant Irvine said bail was not opposed on condition that Paul would undertake not to communicate with Miss Baird.

Mr. Hornby: This is extraordinary. Obviously Miss Jean Baird is a friend of hers.

Mr. Marshall (the magistrate): It is a perfectly reasonable request. She has communicated with Miss Baird and she has said she had no authority from her.

Paul gave the undertaking, and was ordered to find a guarantor for £10.

Mr. Hornby asked that the money might be found by Paul herself, adding that if she had to find a guarantor it might mean that she would remain in custody.

The Magistrate: I am a little doubtful whether that would not be a good thing. I think a person who stood bail for her would keep an eye on her and see she was in a fit state to come here next Friday.

DEMPSEY IS WINNING!

New York, Saturday.
JACK DEMPSEY, FORMER HEAVY-WEIGHT CHAMPION OF THE WORLD, HAS COME THROUGH THE FIRST DIFFICULT ROUNDS OF HIS GREAT FIGHT FOR LIFE AND SEEMS TO BE ON THE WAY TO VICTORY.

"I'll be O.K. I'm in there punching," were his own words.

Dempsey is suffering from peritonitis following an operation for appendicitis. Yesterday his doctors said he had only a 50-50 chance of recovery.

This morning's bulletin, however, said: "Dempsey's condition is quite satisfactory. He had a very good night."

"The People's" Secret Service News

THE POPE IS STILL TRYING TO INFLUENCE A PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT OF THE DANZIG PROBLEM. IN THE LAST FEW DAYS HE HAS HAD A LONG TALK WITH THE GERMAN AMBASSADOR TO THE HOLY SEE, AND HAS ASKED HIM TO PUT HIS VIEWS BEFORE HITLER WITHOUT DELAY.

But that Ambassador, like the British and other foreign Ambassadors in Berlin, has to communicate with Hitler through Herr von Ribbentrop. And von Ribbentrop only tells Hitler what he thinks he should know. Ribbentrop believes that Britain will not fight unless British territory is attacked, and he doctors all dispatches so that Hitler gets the same view.

GERMANY is carefully creating an "early war" atmosphere.

Thousands of officer reservists have been warned that they may be called up in August.

Germans working in Poland have been told to bring their families home in the next week or so.

Several German firms with branches in Britain have been told that every German employee who can be spared must return to the Fatherland by the end of July.

Every one of these orders can be interpreted as BLUFF. Official Germany is beginning to realise that Britain means business.

MANCEUVRES and mobilisation which are going on just now in Germany have been so badly muddled that Hitler's Ministers are urging that Field-Marshal von Blomberg should be brought back from exile to take charge.

The Officers' Corps is fighting the plan. Its leaders say that by marrying his typist von Blomberg committed an unpardonable sin against the Prussian Officer caste system.

THE Prime Minister will take Mr. Winston Churchill and Mr. Eden back into the Cabinet. But not until he thinks the right moment has arrived.

TRADE missions will be busy in Britain and Holland this week. Both are from Dictator countries.

In Britain there will be a mission from Franco. He wants to sell Spanish produce here for cash, to balance the supplies he has to send to Germany, and for which Hitler is paying I.O.U.'s.

In Holland will be Dr. Funk, Hitler's Minister of Economics. He will try to bully the Dutch into supplying bacon, butter, cheese and other foodstuffs to Germany in the event of war, instead of to Britain.

FOLLOWING the summoning to Rome of Count Grandi, Italian Ambassador in London, there has been a showdown in the Fascist Cabinet.

The struggle was between the Extremists, led by Count Ciano, and the Moderates, led by Count Grandi. Mussolini, after hearing both sides, threw in his lot with the Extremists.

Count Grandi will be deprived of the London Ambassadorship.

LOUDSPEAKER POLICEMAN

Traffic police have now been issued with a microphone and amplifier. This officer is seen using his loudspeaker while directing pedestrians and traffic in the Old Kent-rd., yesterday.

MILITIAMEN GET THEIR FIRST PAY

THOUSANDS OF "TWENTY-ONE YEAR-OLDS"—PART OF THE FIRST BATCH OF 34,000 MILITIAMEN—RECEIVED THEIR FIRST PAY FROM THE ARMY YESTERDAY, A POSTAL ORDER FOR FOUR SHILLINGS.

Through letter-boxes all over the country postmen pushed a long envelope marked "O.H.M.S." containing the postal order, a railway voucher and a printed letter telling the militiamen when, where and how they are to report for training.

The 4s. states the letter, is an advance and will be recovered from the militiamen's pay.

Calling-up notices for the first 34,000 were sent out this week-end, the majority being received yesterday.

Militiamen will be supplied with a complete outfit, consisting of uniform, equipment, underwear, socks, washing necessities, shaving and cleaning kit, the letter also points out.

"You may bring with you a suitcase containing other articles which you feel you may need; but you are advised not to bring too much in case you find difficulty in storing it in your kit-box."

In Case Of Emergency

TO-DAY: 500,000 PEOPLE WANTED

HALF A MILLION MEN AND WOMEN ARE EXPECTED TO SIGN THE LIFE-SAVING REGISTER—THE ROLL OF HONOUR OF PUBLIC-SPIRITED CITIZENS WILLING TO SACRIFICE A LITTLE OF THEIR BLOOD FOR TRANSFUSION TO SAVE OTHERS IN TIME OF EMERGENCY.

Zero hour will be 10 to-morrow morning, and from then on till mid-day London's great hospitals and A.R.P. headquarters will throw open their doors to test volunteers and take the names and addresses of those willing to become blood donors.

Closed for the afternoon, the centres will open again from five to eight in the evening.

The centres will continue to receive volunteers during these hours until further notice.

BIG STORES HELP

Healthy men between 18 and 65 may register. Actual time taken in blood-testing will be only three or four minutes.

There will be 70 enrolling offices in London, and over 100,000 volunteers are needed in this area alone.

Donors will be divided into four classes—universal, whose blood can be used for all cases—and three other categories whose blood suits only certain types.

More than 10,000 cases have been tested in the London area up to date. During the week 500 candidates were enrolled at Whiteleys and a similar number at Caddy Hall.

If war is threatened this service must be ready to function immediately. Donors would be asked to volunteer more frequently than every month or six weeks.

On the outbreak of hostilities four large depots for stored blood would also be set up round London.

These would be at Maidstone, Luton, Slough, and Worcester Park.

IN THE PROVINCES

Similar depots will be established at the provincial towns where the candidates are invited to register.

These are Birmingham, Brighton, Bristol, Bradford, Cambridge, Coventry, Derby, Gloucester, Harrogate, Hastings, Hull, Keighley, Leamington, Leeds, Leicester, Liverpool, Manchester, Salford, Nottingham, Portsmouth, Preston, Reading, Salisbury, Southampton, Swansea, Warwick and Wolverhampton.

Blood transfusion is not dangerous. Hundreds have already given their blood for transfusion to the nation's sick without feeling the slightest twinge of weakness or pain.

This is something we all can do. The Ministry of Health hope that all who are able will come forward.

of this Newspaper who Suffer from any Form of CATARRH

Mr. John Houben
Guarantees Complete
& Lasting Benefit
to All Who follow his Advice

THE immense public interest aroused when the Prime Minister recently developed nasal catarrh has prompted the following important announcement:—

All that is necessary to give immediate relief in even the severest cases will be sent free to readers of this newspaper with full details of the simple, safe, three-fold way which has enabled some hundreds of thousands of people to say good-bye for ever to all such distressing symptoms as Sneezing—Coughing—Choking—Noises in the Head—Catarrhal Deafness, and other troubles which accompany or follow this serious condition when it is neglected.

The free immediate relief is in itself something which no sufferer can afford to miss.

Think what it will mean to suffer no more from Choking, Coughing, Sniffing and Gasping for Breath! No longer need you endure the annoyance and humiliation of Nose Stoppages, Excessive Mucus and Phlegm, Head Noises, Deafness and Bronchial Asthma—nor the dangerous Self-Poisoning of Catarrhal Indigestion and Constipation!

Newest Medical Knowledge

The newest medical knowledge reveals how the Catarrhal Condition can be eradicated completely from the entire System, and shows why any kind of treatment which merely attacks symptoms is always futile.

If you have Catarrh of the Nose, or Throat, or Stomach—then you may be sure that the same condition extends right through your system. Germs are at work, and their poisons get into your blood and circulate everywhere.

Every sufferer knows that the nose and throat can be quickly and easily cleared with gargles, sprays and inhalants—but the trouble usually returns. You may clear the surface, but the infection, being in the blood, cannot be got rid of so easily.

Eminent Physician's Discovery

An eminent physician, who fully realised the true facts about Catarrh, set himself the task of finding a remedy that would banish as well as relieve—by destroying All the Catarrh germs, whilst cleansing the blood of their poison.

After extensive research work, over a number of years, he succeeded in producing a new bactericide—deadly to the Catarrh germ but non-poisonous, colourless, non-staining, pleasant to use. It clears nose and throat "like magic," and it also passes into the bloodstream, and so hunts down the germs, no matter where they lurk—something entirely new in the treatment of this disease.

To complete the good work, he perfected two wonderful prescriptions for internal use—one which cleanses all the Catarrh-germs from the blood, and another which puts the natural defence forces of the body into first-class "fighting trim" against re-infection. Thanks to these discoveries—now combined in one three-fold treatment—thousands of chronic sufferers have got rid of their Catarrh, Bronchial Asthma, Head Noises, and all Allied Complaints COMPLETELY AND PERMANENTLY.

For the first time many have learned what one-hundred-percent health really means—and their letters of grateful thanks run into thousands.

As the fame of his treatment spread, the physician was compelled to seek the aid of a well-known firm of Manufacturing Chemists to pack and distribute the medicines. In accordance with the oldest and fairest of trading principles, "try before buying," they offer to send all sufferers, FREE, a small test supply of the preparation which will bring INSTANT RELIEF. All readers who suffer from this annoying, weakening and even dangerous complaint are recommended to take immediate advantage of this generous offer—the coupon on right will simplify application.

From all over the country sufferers are flocking to consult Mr. John Houben in order to receive the benefit of his expert advice and sympathetic consideration of their cases. You are cordially invited to call upon him for free consultation at 110, Fleet-street, London, E.C.4; or if you cannot call, post the coupon below and relief will be sent you by return of post.

Remarkable All-Round Benefits Reported When Catarrh is Banished

When sufferers get rid of their Catarrh by following Mr. Houben's advice they are surprised to find that they also get rid of many other troubles at the same time. This is because Catarrh is the unsuspected cause of half the complaints of the present day. Banish your Catarrh, and you revolutionise your health in every way, as is proved by the following letters.

Sense of Smell Returned

"I am very glad to tell you that my wife is entirely free from her Catarrh and that her sense of smell has completely returned. The cure is, I am sure, complete, for there has been no trace of the trouble for over three months—and during the four years previously she had never been free from it. As I was so sceptical at first, I thought it the honest thing to write you thus and wish you every success in your campaign." J. S., Wembley Park.

Constipation Disappeared

"I am surprised at the wonderful results obtained. My Constipation has disappeared. I can smell and taste better than I have done for the past two or three years. My only regret is that I did not send for the Treatment long before." J. C., Littleport.

TONGUE, GUMS & THROAT FREE FROM SORENESS

"My heartfelt thanks for what your treatment has done for me. The mucus is astonishingly reduced, the tongue cleaner than for years, the gums and tongue rid of their soreness, and I am sleeping well. I am greatly satisfied with the results of your work." M. C., Kilsyth, N.B.

Now Sleep Well and Eat Well

"I must thank you very much for the new lease of life I have received since I wrote last. I sleep well and eat well. I feel another person... such a pity I did not have your treatment sooner. I would have been spared much misery and pain." T. N., Glasgow.

Bronchitis Nearly Gone

"I can assure you that I feel a new man. The catarrh has disappeared, the Bronchitis nearly gone. Breathing is practically normal again, and I can assure you that I feel better than I have done for the past two years, and I am very grateful to you." J. B., Newcastle.

Feels a New Man After only 3 days' Treatment

"After suffering for 12 years I am delighted to say that after 3 days' treatment I feel a new man, and do not hesitate to recommend you to all sufferers." J. D., Cadishead.

Dreadful Cough Gone

"It is with great pleasure I write to say that your Catarrh Treatment has completely cured me, for which I am more than thankful. It seems strange to be able to go to bed without having that dreadful cough." G. S., Habrough.

Really a Different Person

"I do not know how to tell you of the improvement in my condition, but I am really a different person since I took up your Treatment. I am more than grateful." H. J., Morecambe.

MR. JOHN HOUBEN, whose remedial methods have made his name famous throughout the length and breadth of the Kingdom.

My acquaintance with John Houben commenced when we were both young enthusiastic workers for Health and Fitness. We are both still as Sufferers from every part of the country write about their trouble to Mr. John Houben. He replies to them personally and their cases are considered individually. He will send you free relief if you post form below, also his advice.

"young" and "enthusiastic," but the intervening years have added something of importance—EXPERIENCE.

If, however, I were asked to describe John Houben in one phrase, I should instantly, without a second's hesitation, say—"Here is a man of 'Understanding'." Wide knowledge he has. Wide sympathy for all in pain or trouble he perceptibly exudes. But besides these splendid qualities, John Houben is gifted with penetrating power of understanding which, to my way of thinking, is the greatest merit of all.

In an almost mysterious fashion, he seems instinctively to sense the differing needs of each sufferer who lays his or her case before him. It is to this invaluable, intangible quality that I attribute much of the success which has brought him to the position of leadership in the well-known firm of Hamlyn & Houben—a position in which he is privileged to bring comfort, health and happiness to thousands of sufferers in the course of every year.

Mr. John Houben is forever studying cause and effect in the conditions responsible for the ailments which still scourge modern civilisation.

As a result he is a veritable living encyclopedia of Health knowledge. You who read this may therefore rest assured that if you entrust your case to Mr. Houben you will be in the hands of a sympathetic friend who really UNDERSTANDS your health trouble and who, in prescribing for your individual needs, will give you the full benefit of all his experience and research, and leave no stone unturned with a view to restoring you once and for all to perfect health.

How Catarrh Invades the Entire System

"Useless to Treat Symptoms" says Mr. J. Houben

"WHAT IS this Catarrh?" I am often asked, and a short explanation certainly seems necessary, because ignorance of the true nature of the disorder causes many victims to think it incurable, and so to prolong their suffering.

In its first stage, Catarrh is a slight infection of the mucous membrane (the moist, thin "skin" which lines the nose and other cavities). In its advanced state, it may affect the ears, stomach, bronchial tubes, lungs and intestine. It may cause deafness, indigestion and constipation, and it may poison the blood so that the sufferer is left without protection against infectious diseases—so it is really a very serious handicap.

The lining of the nose, throat, etc., is covered with millions of tiny "fingers," like fine velvet pile, which gradually work out all the dust and germs that are inhaled. These "fingers" are stimulated and lubricated by a thin gluey solution (mucus) produced by the mucous membrane when irritated.

If you are healthy this arrangement works perfectly, and protects you from infection, but when you are run down, over-fatigued, weakened by illness, or perhaps "drugged" by a hot, stuffy atmosphere, germs get a foothold, because the defence forces fail to work. Germs multiply, set up chronic inflammation of the membranes and soon spread to new areas, until almost any internal organ may be involved.

The secretion of mucus is increased by the irritation—causing running at the nose, choking, expectoration, etc., while during sleep it drips into the throat and is swallowed, causing

DANGERS OF NASAL CATARRH

How It Poisons The Blood Stream

The worst danger of all for the sufferer from Catarrh is that sooner or later the whole blood-stream becomes poisoned, with the result that there come Headaches—head noises—buzzing sounds in your ears—run down, tired feeling—phlegm dropping into throat—nose blocked by mucus or incrustations—voice hoarse, husky, weak—tendency to catch cold easily—sneezing or coughing—loss of sense of smell, taste or hearing—indigestion, flatulence—or heartburn after eating—muddy-looking or pimply complexion—energy and vitality impaired—constipated—offensive breath—"nervy," depressed feeling... these are amongst the commonest symptoms of Catarrh, and if you have any of them you should take action at once.

DEAFNESS & Head Noises Caused by CATARRH

Deafness, one of the most trying afflictions which can befall a man or a woman, is most frequently accompanied by, or follows, catarrh. At the back of the nose, two tubes, the Eustachian Tubes, lead to the middle ear, to equalise the pressure on the ear drums. When you blow your nose too hard, you can feel the pressure in the ears through these tubes.

It is very common indeed for catarrhal infection in the nose to spread along these tubes, causing inflammation which closes them completely, thus upsetting the balance of pressure on the ear drum. This is the usual cause of hardness of hearing, and if the trouble spreads to the inner ear, it may cause complete deafness. Pressure on the nerves of the ear also causes the sensation of "ringing in the ears," head noises, etc. As previously explained, it is folly to treat the ears alone for a disorder which runs throughout the system.

The letters below, all open to inspection, show how Deafness is overcome when Catarrh is banished by the John Houben Treatment.

NO HEAD NOISES

"I have always had to have a week or two in bed, but not this year. I am pleased to say I have not been so well for a long time. I feel so much better in myself, and it is so nice to have no head noises, and I can hear so much better." E. T., Chertsey.

HEARING RESTORED

When Almost Gone

"I wish to state how much I appreciate the good it has done me. Considering that I have suffered from Catarrh all my life, the benefit I have received in the short time is surprising. The hearing of my left ear was almost gone, but I am pleased to be able to state that it is almost normal again." E. L., Highbury-on-Tyne.

BENEFITS ARE PERMANENT

"You may remember that some time ago I took your Treatment for Catarrh, the result of which was perfectly successful, and I am pleased to be able to inform you that I have remained free ever since from this trouble." P. E., Billesdon.

"Old 'Uns'" Plea For Pension Boon

DARBIES-AND-JOANS' "NO. 10" CALL

THEY ARE THE ORPHANS OF LIFE'S STORM!

WITH ABOUT TWOPENCE IN THEIR POCKETS AND A BIG ACHE IN THEIR HEARTS, BRITAIN'S GRANDMAS AND GRANDPAS MADE THEIR BID FOR HAPPINESS LAST WEEK.

Armed with a petition bearing 80,000 signatures, they called at Downing-st. to plead for a pension increase.

Tired-looking Darbies and Joans talked to me afterwards, women with tollworn hands and men whose shoulders drooped.

Serenity sat in the eyes and wrinkled brow of Mrs. Marian Marsh, of Birkenhead. She had fought all her battles long ago, and life had left her a kindly soul full of affection and religion.

It is 38 years since she was left a widow with two invalid sons. Soon the two boys followed their father to the grave, and she was left alone.

Her rent was 8s. 6d. per week. She was forced to take in lodgers.

LIFETIME OF TOIL

"I don't go out much," she told me, "don't seem to want to any more."

"But if there was an increase in the pension I could buy myself a nice warm coat. I wouldn't have to work so hard."

George Pritchard, also from Birkenhead, had a face ploughed with wrinkles and the pride that goes with a lifetime of toil.

"Don't tell anybody," he pleaded. "I thought I would have to come to London in my old togs, but a gentleman gave me this suit."

"I was a gateman at Cammell Laird's (ill the years caught up with me. Haven't enough now for a glass of beer, and tobacco's gone up three-halfpence an ounce."

"Read books in libraries till my head buzzed. When I leave the house now, it's just to go for a walk."

"Our golden wedding's coming off in a few days' time, but we can't afford any kind of a party."

"By the time we have paid rent, coal and light, we are left with 4s. 1d. to live on."

"It's a bread-and-margarine life all right. Wouldn't mind if we could even afford a bit of roast beef on Sundays."

Four score years sit lightly on Jimmy Webb, the Duhila Daddy of Camberwell. He has an air of bustling jollity.

SAVINGS NEARLY GONE

"Dahila Daddy" that's me. Took seven shillings and four pence at London flower shows last year," he said cheerily. "But I'm nearing the end of my savings. Jimmy shook his head sadly."

"Can't afford to live on my pension unless it's increased. And if I lost my bit of garden, what I'd do of a broken heart."

John Stone talked to me. He had tired dreamy eyes and his shirt was torn. But his face was a map of experience, telling stories of things done, seen and felt in 73 years of living.

"Intoxicated with success I was once," John murmured. "Had about £250,000 in the bank and my own racing stable at Maisons Laiffite, near Paris."

"Had about 28 horses in training, including Merry Hampton, the famous Derby winner."

"Before that I had been a steeple-chase jockey. Used to ride three or four winners a week in all the European capitals with race tracks."

"Then came the war. Racing was stopped. The French Government would not allow me to sell anything."

"I was Scotch and Presbyterian. My wife was French and lovely. The war made her restless. We parted. But I could not forget."

"I went to America... drank, speculated, gambled.... After that years of toiling failure."

"Now I am home, dead broke, living in a single room in Camden Town on ten bob a week."

AUSTRIAN GIRL'S

LEAP TO DOOM

Pauline Aloisia Wehdorn, an Austrian maidservant, aged thirty-one, of Vienna, who fell to death from a block of flats in Finchley-rd., N.W., where she was employed, was stated at a Paddington inquest yesterday to have worried that if she went home she might not be able to return to Britain.

She left two notes, in one of which she wrote to her employer: "Thank you for everything. Forgive me for what I have done."

Mrs. Clara Maer, of Eyre Court, Finchley-rd., said Pauline Wehdorn had been with her about a year. Witness knew of no love affair the girl might have had.

King's Handshake Got Him A Job

Rochester, Penn., Saturday. THE KING'S HANDSHAKE WITH JOHN DRAGANZA, AN UNEMPLOYED AMERICAN YOUTH, HAS PUT HIM ON THE ROYAL ROAD TO SUCCESS, FOR NOT ONLY HAS HE RECEIVED FREE GIFTS AND "SHOE-SHINES," BUT NOW HE HAS GOT A JOB.

A large New York hotel has offered him a position which will take him out of the Civilian Conservation Camp at Camp Hunt, Virginia, the Government centre where the royal handshake made him famous.

Another offer involves Draganza entering a University in the autumn.

Draganza, whose fortune has changed with the King's handshake, has not yet been able to make up his mind which offer to accept.—Reuter.

Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor took a day off from Hollywood recently, and here they are at the San Fernando Valley Fiesta Horse Show, giving each other a good time.

I.R.A. Threats To The Abbey

INVISIBLE RAY TO GIVE ALARM

FOLLOWING A STREAM OF I.R.A. THREATS TO WESTMINSTER ABBEY, THE AUTHORITIES ARE TAKING STRINGENT PRECAUTIONS TO PROTECT THE NATION'S PRICELESS HEIRLOOMS CONTAINED IN THE BUILDING.

An invisible ray alarm has been installed at considerable cost in the Edward the Confessor Chapel where the centuries-old Coronation Chair is housed.

Though the Abbey is searched at election time, it was feared that an I.R.A. agent might hide himself in the building, do irreparable damage to the chair and other valuable possessions and then make his escape.

But this will now be impossible. To reach the chair any agent would unwittingly interrupt the invisible ray and cause a raucous alarm bell to ring in the North doorway.

This bell is so powerful that it can be heard several hundred yards away and above the roar of traffic.

A few days ago the alarm was accidentally started, and in a very short time the Abbey was invaded by officials from nearby Scotland Yard.

For more than 600 years every British King had been crowned on the Chair which the authorities are guarding so jealously.

The chair was built in the early part of the fourteenth century by Walter, "the King's Painter," who was commissioned by Edward I.

The present precautions have been taken at the instigation of the Dean and Chapter of the Abbey, who have received many letters from I.R.A. terrorists.

CHARITIES GET £120,000 FROM FILMS

ABOUT £120,000 a year is distributed to charities as a result of the opening of 320 cinemas in London on Sundays.

This is stated in a report of the L.C.C. Entertainments Committee, which points out that the checking of the numerous charity payments involves a great deal of work.

There are more than 360 approved charities on the Council's list.

The L.C.C. on Tuesday will be recommended to make representations to the Home Secretary for an amendment of the Sunday Entertainments Act, to enable a grant to be made from the Kinematograph Fund to licensing authorities towards their administrative expenses.

The Council, in common with other licensing authorities, has power to charge fees for the grant of kinematograph licences for weekdays, but not in respect of Sunday opening.

The amount collected by the Council from licences and transmitted to the Kinematograph Fund, which is under the control of the Privy Council, is about £6,300 a year, out of a total for the whole country of about £11,000 a year.

BARRISTER'S TRIBUTE TO UNSELFISH WIFE

This was said of his wife by Mr. Joseph Denham Denham-Smith, barrister, who died at Brighton, aged eighty-one.

"She has been the staunch and constant companion from my early to declining years, than whom God never lent to a man a truer and more unselfish, more loving or more faithful consort and friend, and to whom I owe all the sunshine of my married life."

Mr. Denham-Smith, who was a member of the Carlton and Boodles Clubs, left £234,725.

RICH NAZIS SMUGGLING GOLD ABROAD

From Our Own Correspondent

Paris, Saturday. FEAR THAT HITLER MAY BE FORCED TO RAID PRIVATE FORTUNES, TO MAKE ENDS MEET, IS DRIVING HUNDREDS OF WEALTHY AND INFLUENTIAL GERMANS TO SMUGGLE SECRET "NEST-EGGS" IN GOLD AND PRECIOUS STONES FROM THE COUNTRY.

They believe Germany is on the verge of a financial crash that will bring them to ruin unless they can get their money out in time.

Despite the stringent laws to prevent the export of valuables, the secret stream of gold flowing from Berlin to London, Paris and New York has reached amazing proportions.

Although the operations are shrouded in mystery and the details of how Nazi customs officials have been duped remain secret, I am able to reveal that agents of a Swiss bank having business relations with England, France and America have been concerned.

LONDON VISITS

The quantity of smuggled gold reaching Paris is so large that the attention of the French Government was drawn to the matter.

It is known that the valuables are not the property of refugees but of highly placed Germans.

An addition to the Swiss bank, a well-known German financier who has the complete confidence of Hitler and the Nazi chiefs has made several visits to London and Paris to arrange operations.

Here he was in touch with the principal of a New York banking corporation who was in Paris on other business.

Following their meeting, substantial gold shipments of German origin began to be directed to New York.

It is also known that thousands of pounds' worth of precious stones, many of them centuries-old German heirlooms, have recently been sold in Paris to Amsterdam dealers.

In the last day or two suspicions have been aroused in Berlin, and frontier regulations have been rigorously tightened. Even persons holding diplomatic passports are liable to be searched.

SOLICITOR'S PRIDE IN HIS FAMILY TRADITION

Mr. Herbert Innes Pripp, solicitor, of Broughton, Hants, formerly of Bedford-rd., W.C., expressed a wish in his £11,404 will that various personal effects should pass to—

"Such members of my own family as may still care not to forget their ancestors have been decent, respectable people, or to disregard their traditions."

He made this request in the hope that his family may have more respect for his wishes than for the letter of the law.

BIG RAIL SPURT FROM TO-MORROW

Over a hundred trains will be speeded up to-morrow when the L.M.S. Railway's summer time-table comes into operation.

This will provide a total saving to the public of 482 minutes per day.

Sixty-seven expresses will make start-to-stop journeys at 60 m.p.h. or over, covering 6,883 miles daily—a new British record.

FOR SELECTING THE 12 BEST NATIONAL SERVICE SLOGANS

THE Nation is calling to millions of men and women throughout the country to render National Service. There are jobs of every kind which need to be done, and it is being impressed upon everyone that the obligations are real and the need is urgent. How best can the Nation be made "National-Service" conscious? The "Daily Herald" has launched a £1,000 National Service Slogans Competition in which 28 National Service slogans are featured and you are asked to select the 12 which would best influence and inspire the individual, as well as the Nation as a whole, to take action and enrol for National Service.

Imagine that you were called upon to make known the importance of National Service. Imagine you were asked to provide 12 telling slogans that would make everyone appreciate the necessity for taking immediate action to enrol for one service or another. Which 12 of the 28 slogans would you select? Just read them through carefully. You will see that each carries a message with a meaning. They are common-sense slogans calling for common-sense action. Each one implies that it is up to every one of us "to do something about it" if we want to make certain of the safety of the country and ensure a lasting peace. Discuss the slogans with your family and with your friends, then commence the selection of the 12 that may win for you the £1,000 prize. Remember, the more Entry Forms you complete the more opportunities you will be giving yourself of carrying off a fortune. Don't lose the opportunity—complete the Entry Form on the right to-day and then make up your mind to complete an Entry Form from the "Daily Herald" every day.

HOW TO ENTER THIS COMPETITION

To enter this Competition place a Cross (X) against each of the twelve "Slogans" you select in the blank spaces provided in Coupons Nos. 1 and 2 on the Entry Form on right. The total price of 21 (one) must be won. An Entry Form (containing two Coupons) will be published regularly in the "Daily Herald" during the run of the competition. A penny stamp must be affixed to the Entry Form, to cover the two Coupons. No competitor may send in more than one Entry Form (2 the limit) from each day's issue of the "Daily Herald". Each envelope must contain entries from one competitor only. Envelopes must be sealed and bear the correct postmark.

★ You can send in as many entries as you like. Remember, the more entries you send, the more opportunities you are giving yourself of winning a fortune.

Add your Entries to:
National Service Slogans Competition, "Daily Herald," 219, Strand, London, W.C.2 (Comp.)

TALK of the TIME

READ THIS FIRST

BECAUSE of a quixotic notion that she could use his money to help her friends, FAYRE DENMERE married TONY MYRON, a rich young man who fell madly in love with her on first sight. After the wedding Tony's realization that Fayre does not love him causes him to leave her, though his affections for her were stronger than ever. Seeing in this her opportunity, MARJORIE ISALA, wife of Tony's friend GREG, tracks Tony down to a cottage in Cornwall, where Tony meets with an accident. Realising that she does love him after all, Fayre goes to the cottage, where Tony is still unconscious, and there meets Marjorie, who gives a false impression of the true state of affairs. Fayre learns that though he does not yet know it, Tony has lost all his money except the half of his fortune he had settled on her at the time of the marriage. Meanwhile, unknown to Tony, she has turned her money over to his lawyers for his later benefit.

By GINA DAYE

"D. R. FORESTLY would like to see you to-day, Madam," came the voice of Krane. "They think the master can be removed more quickly than they thought, and that it would do him good to get away from here into different air and surroundings."

"I'll come at once," Fayre wanted to ask, "Where is Mrs. Isala?" but could not. It was a pretty awful thing to question servants. Then she remembered she had dismissed Meseton, placing the car in storage for Tony to sell, and could not afford to go by air.

"Queer," she thought, suddenly stricken, "that I have begun to think richly. I'm knocked sideways because I can't charter a plane."

She must take the express, and she was only just in time. A few things thrust into her gold-lit dressing-case, one of what appeared to be hundreds of Tony's "wedding gifts," and Fayre was on her way to Cornwall. Not until she was halfway there did she remember that to-day was Pete's "to-morrow," and she had promised to lunch with him.

The train roared in time to her thoughts as she sat alone in a third-class compartment. Snow was beginning to fall, for the cold was intense when she arrived in the fishing village. She could hear the sea crashing on to the beach, but the cab which drove her to Dr. Forestly had windows covered with white so that she could not even see the lights of the doctor's house. The elderly man was glad to see her. She stepped into his library-consulting room with white flecks on her hair and her face bright with the cold.

EMOTION

"Krane telephoned that you would like to see me," said Krane.

"Yes, I am afraid I know no medical etiquette which tells me to settle anything with Mrs. Isala." The doctor poked the fire violently, as though he batted Marjorie's blonde head. He had not meant to say that, and he regretted it as he saw Fayre's expression.

"I feel, with Dr. Cratkin, that your husband should be moved. He is getting what we call 'hospital sick'; that is, tired of his room, and he takes no interest in anything at all."

Her hands clenched themselves over her bag. "He has a house ready and he could go there. Can I see him for two minutes?"

Her voice was very level. She swallowed away the lump in her throat and pressed the muscles of her mouth together to keep back the tears.

"I think so, unless—" Dr. Forestly gazed at the fire, longing to push the coals about, drop the tongs, make a clatter.

"He hates me very much," she finished for him. "I don't think he will do that if he has Mrs. Isala near. He'll know I'm going away again."

"I asked if your husband would like to see her, but he refused. I could not make out why. She is, as you know, at the village and he comes every day to enquire and fusses. You know how fussy some women can be?" Dr. Forestly spoke angrily.

He hated Marjorie. She gushed, she trembled, she was so feminine, while Fayre's femininity was calm, lowly, steady, the kind one could depend on. "She does not know much about illness. Is it too late for me to see him to-night?"

"No, I'll come with you to make sure there is no danger through excitement. It will help me to form some opinion as to how he will stand the journey."

REFLECTION

It was snowing with unprecedented flurries for the Riviera of England as they drove to Tony's cottage. As before, Fayre could not see out of the windows, so there was nothing to warn her of arrival until the cab came to a sudden stop. Climbing up the rocky steps was dangerous, once or twice she nearly slipped, but at last she was in the warmth. Dr. Forestly went upstairs ahead of her.

Tony did not turn as he entered. He never wanted to see anyone again. He felt he could remain there inert, gazing in the daytime at the sea and, during the long, dark hours, at the flickers of the fire on the ceiling, or at the little lamp. He had stopped his mind going round and round, remembered carrying Marjorie and the feeling of going down...he reached that point and then memory stopped and began again when he was conscious of the nurses bending over a table. Later, doctors came and went, nurses came and went, and then Krane appeared and Tony said: "Hello, I fell, didn't I?"

Krane tried not to weep. It wasn't mainly, so he blew his nose loudly, which made the nurse look up reproachfully. Then Tony remembered the doctor asking him if he would see Marjorie, and he felt himself trembling all over with rage in a way he despised, but he was too damned weak to stop it.

He thought of Fayre and then refused to think of her. He wanted to ask if she had "inquired" but could not bring himself to letting Krane certain, Marjorie must be told all about Tellock, as she would be going there. It was an ordeal that had to be gone through. Fayre took a tepid bath in a painted one that needed repainting. She was glad she had not unpacked her gold-stoppered bottles, for somehow Mrs. Forestly would have thought them a bad sign.

Dr. Forest placed a hand on Fayre's wrist. "Don't worry," he told her.

She went in to see the doctor as the cab called to take her to see Marjorie and from there on to the station. Dr. Forestly was rather grave. Fayre saw that immediately she entered the room and he waved his spectacles backwards and forwards as he plunged.

"I am afraid my patient is not quite so well this morning. We must avoid any shock. I shall delay removal for a day or two to see how he gets on. I—er—think—"

It is better for me not to see him again," Fayre finished bravely.

"Yes, to be quite frank," Dr. Forestly smiled a little. Frankness was the one thing she could bear now. "I understand, but if there is anything you want that I can do without my husband knowing I am doing it, please let me know."

SUGGESTION

She shivered several times as she drove to the hotel. Nerves stretched to breaking point that made her want to scream as the chambermaid took her up to Marjorie's bedroom.

The brandy head popped up at the moment the door opened and the pink and white face went a deep crimson.

"Hullo," she managed, while thinking: "What a marvellous frock. Black suits her better than anything else."

"I had to come, Marjorie. There are one or two things I've got to tell you about Tellock. That is Tony's new house. I suppose you will be going there?"

Fayre saw everything in black patches, and then clearly. She shook so violently that she took an unforced chair, for she could not stand up. She was making amends to Tony, making things easy. If he had not cared for her when he married her, neither had she, and it was her fault in saying "Yes" to such an impetuous suggestion.

Marjorie flopped back amongst the pillows and her brain worked like lightning. What had Fayre been told? Had Greg called on her? Had Tony expressed a wish for her to go to this place Fayre called Tellock? Not even her vain optimism made that sound a possible situation.

"I suppose so," she said lamely. "He will be moved in a day or two?"

"Fayre found she could not add that seeing he had given him a set-back—and if you go with him you will find everything in order and these addresses"—she handed over a slip with the names of the various firms responsible for the decorations—"will be those you may need if there is any alteration or adjustment wanted."

"You are funny," Marjorie said gravely. "Why don't you scratch my eyes out?"

"They are pretty eyes," Fayre said, and the crimson went deep in Marjorie's face again. "We will not discuss if there is any reason for me to do that. If Tony wants a divorce, will you tell him I will do all that is necessary to set him free?"

"That's decent of you." Again Marjorie's hopes ran high. Tony must have said something nice about her.

"No, only sensible. I would like you to let me know if there is anything he needs which I alone can see to, local things." She got up and went to the door. Her train was going soon and there was nothing more to be said.

"Good-bye," Marjorie said a little tearfully.

"Good-bye," As Fayre went out and closed the door, she thought: "That's over and I'm not dead, or demented." She felt someone or something had died. Closing the door on a part of her life, two parts in fact, Marjorie who was of her school days, Tony of the new life that had been born in her mind too late.

HAIR FALLING OUT?

Each bottle of Pure Silvikrin contains enough to restore the growth of hair by 33.

At last the problems of falling hair, baldness, dandruff, etc., have been solved by this brilliant bio-chemist, Dr. Weidner. He discovered that for healthy growth the hair must have 14 separate, natural ingredients; and he combined them in Silvikrin. Silvikrin is therefore the hair's natural food. It stops falling hair, banishes dandruff and grows new, healthy hair.

SILVIKRIN LOTION
For slight dandruff, hair beginning to fall, lack of lustre, weak hair—the perfect dressing that will restore the health and natural lustre of the hair. Price 1/6, 2/6, and 4/6 per bottle.

PURE SILVIKRIN
For severe dandruff, serious falling hair, bald patches—restores hair to its natural growth. Grows new hair. Bottle 6/-, sufficient for one month. From all chemists, hairdressers and druggists.

How He Ended SCIATICA

Cornish man tells of his wonderful recovery by the aid of Eades all-in treatment.

Every sufferer longs for a remedy that will free him from this intolerable torture. The wish can be quickly realised by taking Eades Pills, a remedy which clears out the cause of sciatica and all rheumatic maladies. Thousands owe their continued freedom from torturing pain and crippling stiffness to Eades Pills and have gratefully testified to the unfailing efficacy of this remedy.

Mr. E. Marlow, Gothers, St. Dennis, writes:—"I was taken very bad with Sciatica and in bed for two months in agony in February when a friend told me about Eades Pills so I decided to try them. I gradually got better and able to walk around after taking the first bottle. After the second I was able to go to work again. What glorious relief! I shall never be without them. I am glad to say I have not had any signs of rheumatism since. Eades Pills are keeping me in perfect health."

Sciatica, rheumatism in joints or muscles, lumbago, gout, Eades Pills banish them all because these pills expel ALL the acids and toxins which cause these afflictions. Get the Pills and secure relief to-day! 1/3 and 3/- of all chemists. (Insist on the genuine Eades Pills, nothing else will do.)

BELLE AND THE BALL

The holiday season has arrived with a swing, and this is how they combine fun with fitness on the South Lancashire coast.

"SHILLING-A-WEEK"

GIRL MADE GOOD

From Our Own Correspondent

Erith, Saturday.

MISS FLORENCE HOOPER, FIRST HEADMISTRESS OF NORTHUMBERLAND HEATH CENTRAL GIRLS' SCHOOL, ERITH, WHO IS TO RETIRE AT THE END OF THE SUMMER TERM, HAS BEEN A TEACHER FOR 51 YEARS.

"I became a pupil teacher in 1888," she said, "soon after my twelfth birthday, and I received my wages."

"I always wanted to be a teacher, and can remember as a child playing at 'schools' with cotton-reels as the pupils."

"One of the things I shall never forget will be the number of old girls, some of them now grandmothers, who have written or called on me to say how sorry they were to have given me any trouble at school."

Muffin-Man Harry Will Make Britain "Larf"

FAME COMES TO COCKNEY GENIUS

SPECIAL TO "THE PEOPLE"

HE HAS THE RUDDY FACE, LIVELY EYE AND GENIAL HAIR OF THE TYPICAL COCKNEY, AND HIS LOOKS DO NOT BELIE HIM.

For Harry Haynes was born among the "barrers" on the Walworth-rd. His pals are all 'Arries and 'Arriets.

His whole life has been spent in the Metropolis of the Costers and Pearlers, where they eat jellied eels for lunch, fish and chips for supper, and chaff each other, in bare-armed abandon, out of the kitchen window.

From that background, Harry "st naturally graduated from "messin' about wiv a rag and bone man" to selling muffins on his own.

Harry Haynes, like Charlie Chaplin, got something else from environment. A B.B.C. talent spotter discovered it first. He was a natural born comedian.

Since then he has been on the radio scores of times. Now he is to get his first big chance on television on July 16, and Harry is being freely tipped as a wow.

"Coming on wiv me board on me nut," Harry explained yesterday, "I'll talk to listeners kindly like, as if they was me own crumpet."

"Afraid? Not bloomin' likely. I ain't afraid to televise in front of all these swells wiv chokers on."

"I'll start in wiv a bit o' chatter, ring me bell, and give 'em me call."

"Lillywhite! I'll cry, that being the way I make me crumpets and muffins—lillywhite!"

"Blimey! They don't 'alf taste nice fried wiv a bit o' bacon fat."

GOOD CHEER

Harry's smile radiated happiness and good cheer.

"I sells all me muffins by making me customers 'larf'," he added. "Don't 'alf cheer 'em up I don't."

And Harry claims to be able to make anyone 'larf!

"Make me," I challenged him.

"What's the colour o' me eyes?" asked Harry.

"Grey," said I.

"Not after me pal Bill and I have had a night out."

"Do they change colour, then?"

"Lumme, not 'alf," said Harry. "They change to a lovely black!"

So Harry made me chuckle. He has the germ of real success in him, but it bothers him not a whit.

"Just want to carry on as I am," he told me. "Just want enough to feed the old woman and get a couple o' pints for me."

"Never wants to do more than just struggle along. For those as struggle are happy. Besides I don't want to leave me mates dahn 'ere. Best chums a man ever had."

"Was dahn and out once after an accident that laid me up for five months."

"Why, the blokes rallied round. Fed me, settled me bills, and paid me rent."

"It's just a way they 'ave o' soul" on.

"Even if they're skint themselves, they'd starve to give another bloke a meal."

"HOLLYWOOD" IN BLACKPOOL

A NEW GARDEN VILLAGE HAS SPRUNG UP ON THE SANDHILLS SOUTH OF BLACKPOOL. IT IS CALLED SQUIRE'S GATE.

There is no other garden village quite like it anywhere in England, for Squire's Gate is a reproduction in miniature of a Hollywood film colony.

The little cream bungalows which house its inhabitants are built end to end in quadrangles around green, garden-edged grass squares; they have red-tiled roofs, and their window frames and shutters are bright blue.

Each "home" is designed to afford the utmost privacy combined with perfect freedom. Each is supplied with electricity, and the bedrooms have fitted basins with running water.

A visitor may rent a furnished one-room bungalow by the week for as little as three guineas, including all meals. A front-door latchkey is handed over, and once inside the visitor is as free and private as in his or her own home.

The "communal" rooms which the inhabitants share include a restaurant with seating for 1,000, a ballroom, recreation hall, etc., all designed by one of the leading art-directors of film-land, Andrew Mazzei.

Life within the village centres round the new Piazza, paved in chequer-board design, with its fountains and swimming pools. Facing this is the new restaurant with its vast veranda for sun-bathing.

Lord Derby will formally open these latest additions to Squire's Gate when he pays the village a visit on Saturday next.

'Good Wife' Rebuked

TOLD SHE HAD MADE CHILD A THIEF

SPECIAL TO "THE PEOPLE"

THOUGH her husband said she was a good wife and mother, the Old Street magistrate, Mr. F. O. Langley, rebuked a woman who, with her sixteen-year-old daughter, was accused of shoplifting.

"You ought not to have married; you ought not to have had any children," he said.

"You have behaved in a perfectly shocking way towards your husband and you have made this child of yours, who has been given every chance of a distinguished career, into a thief."

The woman, Mrs. Flora Pearl, aged forty-two, and her daughter Sadie, both of Stepney Green Buildings, E., were accused of being concerned in stealing shoes, handbag and two remnant from a shop in Mile End-rd.

Her husband said he "could not make it out," adding, "she is a good mother and a good wife. I do not think it is in my daughter to do a thing like this."

The girl denied the charge, but Mrs. Pearl pleaded guilty. "I suddenly went mad and took these things," she said.

"I acted like an idiot."

But the husband's plea succeeded. The magistrate discharged them under the Probation of Offenders Act, "entirely out of consideration for the husband. I feel acutely the position of Mr. Pearl."

1,000 Guests For A Ball

DUKE'S PARTY "BIGGEST EVER"

SPECIAL TO "THE PEOPLE"

ONE OF THE MOST AMAZING PARTIES STAGED IN BRITAIN FOR YEARS WILL BE THAT GIVEN BY THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH ON FRIDAY FOR THE COMING-OUT OF HIS ELDEST DAUGHTER, LADY SARAH SPENCER-CHURCHILL.

It will be held at Blenheim Palace, ancestral home of the Dukes of Marlborough, and will be attended by more than 1,000 guests. Among them is expected to be the Duke of Kent.

The huge estate—12 square miles—will be ablaze with fairy-lights, and special arc-lights will floodlight the battlements of the Castle.

Guests will arrive from all over Britain, and a private aerodrome has been arranged for those coming by plane.

Tall, blue-eyed, fair-haired Lady Sarah, who is seventeen, is considered to be the loveliest debutante of the year.

She will conduct guests over the huge castle, the history of which she has studied intently.

When the guests tire of dancing, or of the many entertainments that will run non-stop, they will be able to stroll in the mile-long corridors that run under the castle.

The corridors, built by a former Duke, are large enough to hold thousands of people.

In the surrounding parkland, illuminated searchlights will play on the fountains and trees.

Rare flowers from the Castle's hot-houses will decorate the tapestried dining-hall and the white marble ballroom.

The two younger sisters of Lady Sarah, fourteen-years-old Lady Caroline and ten-years-old Lady Rosemary, will be allowed up past their normal bed-time to see the gorgeous spectacle.

EIRE FOLK IN BRITISH "INVASION"

Between 18,000 and 19,000 immigrants from Eire have entered Great Britain during the past five years, Mr. E. H. Cross, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, has stated in a written reply.

He also said that during the five years 1934-38 the average excess of immigration over emigration into Great Britain from foreign countries, other than those in Europe, totalled 4,200.

"HOUSES IN PERIL" WARNING

PEOPLE living in Alliance-rd., Plumstead, S.E., will meet to-day to consider what action should be taken following a letter which some of them have received from the L.C.C. and Woolwich Borough Council warning them that a survey has shown that there is "grave risk" of land subsidence.

In March last year part of a garden in Alliance-rd. disappeared into a cavity.

The following June a man was killed when an area of Rockliff-rd.—an open space near by belonging to Woolwich Council—caved in.

The L.C.C., in conjunction with the local council, has carried out extensive investigations into disused chalk workings underground.

To-day's meeting has been called by East Plumstead Residents' Association, which was formed to look after the interests of people living in the neighbourhood.

NAVY IS ALL "O.K."

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

BRITAIN'S important naval bases are prepared against attack. Boom defences protect all harbour entrances. Submarines, torpedoes and floating mines could not penetrate them.

"In the event of war there would be no hustle and bustle in naval ports," an official told me.

"There are no further preparations to be made; we are all set, and have been for some long time."

The main buildings and factories in the dockyards are heavily walled with sandbags to guard against splinters from bombs. These are constantly inspected, and when there are signs of the sacking wearing through, owing to wind and rain damage, replacements are immediately ordered.

"I thought 'er little 'eart would break"

1. One morning, there she was—sitting on me luggage truck, crying fit to break 'er 'eart. "Ere," I says, "this ain't no time to be down-hearted." "You'd be down-hearted if you'd missed your train," she says. "It's breakfast," she goes on. "It's never ready on time in our house and that's what makes me late." So while she was waiting I tells 'er about the 30-second breakfast.

2. Well, when she arrives at the shop, she tells me, it seems nobody notices 'er. She sneaks in and 'angs up 'er coat. Then she gets to thinking wot I've just been telling 'er about the 30-second breakfast. "I'll take home a packet of those Kellogg's," she says to 'erself. "I might as well prove for myself how much time they'll save."

3. Next morning she 'as the surprise of 'er life. Breakfast is all ready and waiting when she gets down. "And porter," she tells me later, "I've never tasted anything so good as those Kellogg's. The flakes are so big and crisp and golden." Her ma was delighted, too, it seems—sent me a message to say 'ow grateful she was!

4. Three weeks later I was waiting by the train when who should I see but the little girl 'erself! "I don't see you missing no trains these days," I calls. "I never do," she says, "thanks to your tip about Kellogg's. And porter," she says, "next time your wife wants to buy a hat tell her to come to our shop and ask for the new under-buyer!"

THE 30-Second Breakfast HAS MORE ENERGY VALUE THAN 3 EGGS

An analysis made at a leading dietic centre shows that a plate of Kellogg's with milk and sugar has more energy value than 3 eggs! (Average bowl of Kellogg's 220-230 calories, 3 average eggs 210 calories.) That's why workers find the 30-second breakfast so sustaining.

Kellogg's are quick and easy to serve, too. There's no cooking, so you save time and washing-up. And the flavour—those big golden flakes are deliciously crisp! Ask your grocer for Kellogg's—now only 5d. for a big family packet.

SPORTING CHATTER

PITY THESE

YOUNG TYKES

Champions Can Find No Place For Them

WHOD' BE A YORKSHIRE COLT? SMURTHWAITE, YOUNG SHEFFIELD UNITED PRO., TOOK FIVE DERBYSHIRE WICKETS FOR SEVEN RUNS, BUT OUT HE CAME NEXT MATCH BECAUSE ROOM MUST BE FOUND FOR THE CHAMPIONS' FOUR TEST STARS.

I'm not blaming the Yorkshire selectors; it's not their fault they are overstocked with talent. They have a big advantage in the size of their county, anyway. But these youngsters, eager and keen, must reflect sadly upon the misfortune that caused them to be born around the same time as perhaps the best Yorkshire eleven that has been known.

With any other county Smurthwaite—and Fiddling, the reserve wicket-keeper, too—would have kept their places for all time after the display they gave against Derbyshire. Fiddling has no wonderful figures for his credit, but Captain Brian Sellers was continually patting him on the back for his smart work in that match.

This shows how well placed Yorkshire are for talent. When the champs went to Bristol for the return match with Gloucestershire it was just a toss-up whether Robinson or Smalles, fresh from an all-round wicketless test, was dropped. Finally it was Robinson, who impressed with a terrific bowling display against M.G.C.

Smurthwaite will play for Yorkshire twice again at least this year, on the days of the next two Tests, and both matches are at Sheffield. He can take all ten twice in each match and my bet is still that he'll be as far as ever removed from collaring a regular place in the county eleven.

To-day there are five Yorkshire batsmen dotted all over the country doing their stuff for other counties. They're wise guys.

P.S.—If this is the best-ever Yorkshire from what does that make Gloucestershire? Hammond and his boy completed the "double" against the champions last week.

George Garratt, star Whalley batsman, is showing great form in the Ribblesdale League this season. Playing against Leyland he scored 62 out of his side's total of 100, and had the distinction of being the first player in the League to reach the 500-run mark this term.

In signing Roy Brown, clever young Nottingham Forest left-winger, Wrexham consider they have made a smart capture to Leeds this season. Just twenty-one years old, Brown stands 5 ft. 9 in., weighs 11 st. 2 lb., and last season took part in 20 Second Division matches with the Forest.

Every bowler in the Lancashire League who had the luck to bag George Headley's wicket during the years he was professional for Haslingden must have been blowing his chest out since the Black Wizard twilled the English bowlers for a couple of centuries in the Test match. Incidentally, the Lancashire League have realised the tremendous advertising value of Headley's performances. And Haslingden folk have not been reluctant to remind all and sundry that George is coming back to them next season.

Hull are making strenuous efforts to assure being installed in their new ground on the outskirts of the west end of the city by the season after next. It is a big undertaking for a club that can only as yet boast Third Division standard, though Manager Ernie Blackburn and Chairman Shepherd are pretty confident that from the dozen or more close season signings they will form the nucleus of a promotion-winning eleven. Personally, I should have been more faith in them if they hadn't sold their utility man and match-winner, Cliff Hubbard, to West Ham.

My Weekly Broadcast

ABSENCE OF A COLOSSUS FROM THE MALE ENTRY HAS MADE THIS YEAR'S WIMBLEDON THE MOST EXHILARATING FOR SOME YEARS.

Last time Don Budge swept everyone off-court with disdainful ease. Before that Fred Perry annihilated all rivals. Earlier still that American whirlwind, Ellsworth Vines, smashed through the defences of Crawford and Austin as if they were soft butter (the defences, I mean...).

I have said before that this is not a highest-grade Wimbledon. There are no stars that glittered like W. T. Tilden, Cochet, Borotra and Perry, when they were all fighting for the title. We will learn nothing from lawn tennis which lacks the thunder of an American strong-arm like that of Budge; and Bobby Riggs, McNeill and the rest of this year's invaders from the U.S.A. are not in that class.

But I do think that this year's soft-pedal Wimbledon increases its charm. Nothing is cut and dried. There are no man-eaters; only a lot of supremely good players. The one giant I am certain, however, has taken the title without too much ado is not playing. The German, Baron Gottfried von Cramm, now the world's ace amateur, did not enter.

JUST LIKE HER BROTHER

Guess who this is? She is Aline Brown, sister of well-known Surrey cricketer, Freddie Brown. Aline, who has been chosen to tour Australia with the women's team, plays against the Rest of England at the Oval on July 22.

When at school, Curran, Bristol City's new centre-forward—he was with Bristol Rovers last season—scored nearly 200 goals. He won a dozen medals in school football.

Funny how some people think they can run a football club have the applications for the post of Bournemouth's manager were letters from an architect and a builder's foreman.

What price Cliff Britton, Everton's international right-half, at present touring with the F.A. team in South Africa, making a move when he returns? Chances are that Britton may come to London. Who said "Spurs or Chelsea?"

Although Brentford paid a substantial fee for Saunders, young Sunderland Park club would not have got him but for the fact that he was anxious to return South after four years with the Roker Park club. Sunderland was his only League club, for he turned professional to join them from Sussex County football—Newhaven F.C.

Where's the new blood at Highbury? Arsenal fans may well wonder, but it is all part and parcel of the new Arsenal policy. Every opportunity will be given to young men now on the books and we can look forward to seeing much more of the former East Ham schoolboy, Alf Fields, at centre-half, and George Drury, now that the latter has regained his Sheffield Wednesday form.

A Tale of Two Balance-sheets

NOBODY at Leicester needs to be told that success pays. The City F.C. balance-sheet shows a net profit of £6000 on English League games in the past season. Of course, the customers are right. City didn't have a favourable point or goal average last year—even at home. It cost them £1000 a home game. People at Filbert-street will remember that when they appoint a new manager and trainer in the near future.

Meanwhile, just forty miles away, at Leicester, nobody needs to be told that success pays, either. Professional football has taken on a new lease of life there, and although the United were in debt only a year ago, their balance-sheet shows a profit of £2000—and the men who took them to the top half of the Midland League are still there.

Maybe Perrenbrough's recipe could be adopted? Variety is the spice of life: which probably explains why there are so many ambitious amateur players (Voices, Verity (Yorkshire), Taylor (Essex), Idon and Hopwood (Lancs), Watson (Leicester), Boyes (Hants) and Compton (Middlesex), but right-handed and bow left, while Paynter (Lancs), Nichols (Essex), Ennals and Robinson (Yorks), Heane (Notts) and Perks (Worcestershire) bat left-handed and bowl right.

Arthur Wellar, Somerset's mighty hitter, receives his benefit this year, but doubt if Arthur will ever forget the time when he hit a ball from Gloucester to London. He was playing against Essex at the time, and when the slow bowler pitched one, Arthur charged up his shoulders and smote the ball out of the ground. It landed in a train that was passing, and the driver was killed. Until Liverpool Street Station was reached, I guess this is the only time a cricket ball was hit so far.

"It's hot work," says Hutton. So he rests while waiting for his next partner

J. Stollmeyer, the young West Indies opening batsman, impressed everyone by the accuracy of his shots. He placed the ball confidently in the hands of a small boy his brother and he used to place the chairs in their sitting room to resemble the chairs in the batting crease, and in placing the balls through the gaps in their chairs. Practising in this manner helped both of them to reach Test rank.

Norman Miller, Aberbroath's new centre-forward from Dundee, has an original way of keeping himself fit. At the week-end he is in the habit of swimming to a Scottish port and took a boat to Germany along with a pal. All they carried was a knapsack which contained a waterproof sheet, a blanket and a few toilet requisites. They are doing a three-weeks' hike in the Hitler country, and everything goes well they will also spend a fortnight in Switzerland. They will be footing it most of the way, getting accommodation at youths' hostels and, where necessary, making their beds under any old hedge. Perhaps they'll get a game or two of football on the way, for, just as in Scotland, you find football played everywhere in Germany.

Wimbledon, however, will not recapitulate its full glories until the Open Tournament dauns. That is when our lawn tennis moguls see the Light, which may be any time between 1940 or 2,000 A.D.

IN department sessions of sleep, the Ideas Department was discussing the finest strokes ever made. Our old friend Kukuljevic, with his remarkable whipped left-handed forehand drive, inspired the debate. Before the I.D. fell asleep, I succeeded in classifying the findings. Most perfect strokes we have seen are: (1) Bradman's hook, which he makes from any position between the horizontal and the vertical and which places the ball to all parts of the boundary; (2) Budge's backhand, taken with the entire body leaning like the Tower of Pisa over the ball and with the feet close together; quite unorthodox and quite untakable; (3) the tantalising drop-shot of Hans Kusslein, German tennis professional, which imparts such heavy cut to the ball that it bounces just over the net; (4) Walter Hoad's forcing stroke to mid-wicket off his back foot; (5) Bobby Jones' delicate putting touch; (6) the Barna backhand flick in table-tennis.

THAT will be enough of that. Oh, I nearly forgot. All Woolley's strokes come into the above category. The way the Kent master used to lean over the ball and stroke it to the boundary defies description. Oh, I nearly forgot. I never saw W. G. Grace, so I couldn't know which of his strokes was the best.

If anyone deserves the title of all-round sportsman it's Wally. Besides leading Gloucestershire, he plays tennis, squash rackets, golf, billiards, and was formerly a professional footballer with Bristol Rovers.

It is quite probable that Eddie Paynter will hit up centuries both for Lancashire and England for some time yet. Nevertheless, he can't go on for ever.

Launceston, on the look-out for a successor to this brilliant left-hand batsman, should take a look at Edwin Crompton, now hitting the high spots with his nineteen-year-old left-hander started his cricket ten years ago, assisting St. Cuthbert's in the local league, joining Darwen in 1934. Starting in the team, he became a regular member of the "A" team last season, while at the start of the present campaign he was promoted to the first eleven.

ONE hundred and nine against Leyland batters brought him into the line, and though since that time he has hit up such a high score, he is a batsman of promise. Attacking bowling in the time, his favourite shot is a straight drive. At present he is a little too eager to "have it go," but this fault can be remedied. Again I pass on the tip to Launceston to have a look at this youngster. He has the makings of a brilliant bat.

THIS isn't high finance as we have learned to regard it in football, but I wonder how many football club managers could accomplish what little Crew did last season? Not a penny piece was received from the transfer of a player; gates were never much above starting level, yet a profit of £133 was shown. I'd like to see some of those managers who have been used to sitting around the country side with an open cheque-book all their lives handling a Cinderella club for a season!

CRICKET CONTRASTS—

HANTS NEED FAST BOWLER

Derbyshire Cry Out For Batsmen!

IT IS ALL VERY SAD. MY TAME MATHEMATICAL GENIUS, HAVING SUDDENLY RETURNED FROM HIS LONGEST HOLIDAY—HE HAS BEEN DINING IN TIBET WITH A GIANT PANDA—HAS IMMEDIATELY GONE TO THE HEART OF THINGS.

The English, he sez, puzzle Tibetans as much as Americans. No-one understands why they invented Cricket—a game which they play for three days and then leave unfinished! No-one, outside the Empire, understands Cricket, anyway! Moreover, not even the Sahibs can explain the peculiarities of our present County system.

My T.M.G., for instance, can't understand why Derbyshire are just about the best bowling county in the game (screams of protest from Yorkshire), whereas Hants have hardly any bowling at all! Then again, while Hants are a fair batting side, Derbyshire batting is shocking.

"Do you know," he exclaimed waggishly the other day, "that so poor has been Hants' bowling this season that the county, although leading on the first innings seven times in the first twelve matches, have not once recorded an out-right win? And that six teams have made 400 or more against them in one innings?"

I say what! What I do know is that they need urgently a good pace bowler to open the attack. They miss a quick man like Hearn. As a result, George Heath, their medium-pace swing bowler, who will be out of the game for a month through injury, has been nowhere near as effective as in 1938.

Switch to Derbyshire. Their case is in stark contrast. Peckitts claim a smashing attack, in spite of what Yorkshiremen say. Still, Derby's bowling is hot. It was this department that won them the Championship in 1936. It is this department that is keeping them up the ladder this year. Copson is a great lad. Yet the county lacks star batsmen to clinch their challenge. Desperately, they want a sound opening pair. Where they are to be found seems beyond their knowledge. It is only the truth when I add that the experts of one hand will accommodate the number of class bats who have played for Derbyshire since the war.

So there you are. I present to you the Derbyshire and Hants. One craves batsmen; the other cries out for bowlers. They should do a deal.

FASTEST GIRL SWIMMER

Meet Denise Newman, fifteen-year-old English girl from Egypt. Denise, experts claim, is the fastest swimmer in the world for her age. Here she is training for the National Championships which start at Minehead on July 11.

Doncaster can complete two defences from the players they have with London associations. Rovers have 15 ex-London players on their books. They represent every department in the side, including five forwards.

Season tickets by hire purchase! This is the novel scheme introduced by Stockport County to stimulate the sale of seasons. The club have appointed a number of shopkeepers in the town as agents, and any person wanting a season ticket, can make payments at whatever rate they wish to them. If the club start the season badly, however, there may be quite a number of purchasers missing with their payments!

P.S.—Our Ideas Department, awakening from its well-known slumbers, says that is not such a good idea.

I AM telling you something about this Wimbledon because it is still the world's premier amateur lawn tennis tournament. It also takes in an atmosphere which cannot possibly be described in words. There is something almost holy about the Centre Court, and there is hardly a player who has not suffered, at one time or another, from Centrecourtitis. Wimbledon, you see, is the Mecca of all tennis players. Its quiet courts all nations mingle, political differences forgotten. And once they have come, they come agog. This, of course, may be due to the fact that foreigners carry off most of the prizes. Anyway, Englandmen who win anything as rare as a gate-crasher into the Centre Court.

Wimbledon, however, will not recapitulate its full glories until the Open Tournament dauns. That is when our lawn tennis moguls see the Light, which may be any time between 1940 or 2,000 A.D.
